

First Evidence Introduced After Lengthy Jury Seating

After 4½ days of seating a jury for the first-degree murder trial of Cleo V. Keaton, Dayton, the first evidence was introduced this morning.

Seven witnesses took the stand this morning — all subpoenaed by Prosecuting Attorney Robert H. Huffer. The prosecutor had indicated earlier he would have up to 15 witnesses.

Yesterday afternoon following the noon luncheon recess, the 12 regular jurors and two alternates were taken to the scene of the alleged murder. Harry Sark, court bailiff, pointed out the various items at the site under the direction of Defense Attorney Emanuel Nadlin and Prosecutor Huffer. Keaton was also present at the scene, but would not get out of the sheriff's cruiser.

On the return trip to Circleville, jurors were also taken to Berger Hospital upon request of Nadlin. The reason for the trip to the hospital is expected to be brought out during the presentation of the case by the defense.

TODAY'S session began with opening statements by Huffer, representing the State of Ohio, followed by Nadlin.

In his opening remarks, Huffer explained to the jury that evidence would show that Keaton murdered Maurice Francis, 50, on Mar. 23, about two miles north of Williamsport, and took his automobile. He explained that a 22-calibre revolver was found in Keaton's possession when he was arrested and that his clothing was stained with the victim's blood. Huffer told the jury "we will prove this beyond a reasonable doubt." He said evidence will be introduced that will show Keaton killed Francis to get his car and there will be nothing proven that "will warrant mercy."

Defense Attorney Nadlin's opening statements to the jury were primarily concerned with the defendant's story of what happened on the night of Mar. 23.

Nadlin said that evidence will show that since Keaton was three years old he has been "mentally ill." According to the attorney, his client received a brain injury at that time which has affected his entire life since.

He informed the jury that Keaton's condition was discovered while he was serving time for an armed robbery that he has been convicted of. Since then he has been a "loner," Nadlin said, and has not been able to hold a job or associate with other people.

Continuing his opening statements, Nadlin said that, sometime in the vicinity of March 15, Keaton was involved in three other shootings which resulted in the death of two people. He contended that Keaton "went into flight" and during this time he committed two kidnappings, traveled throughout Southern Ohio with the teen-agers, but brought them back to the Dayton area unharmed and released them.

HE CONTINUED with Keaton's story explaining the events which led up to Francis' death on Mar. 23.

Nadlin said that Keaton wrecked a car which he had stolen from Chillicothe and that Francis, on his way home from work at General Motors in Columbus, stopped to offer help.

According to Nadlin's story of the events prior to the killing, Francis told Keaton the incident should be reported to authorities. Keaton got into the car with Francis and they drove almost to Williamsport when Keaton

Hospital Vital To Community

(An Editorial)

Circleville and Pickaway County must have a hospital that provides the best medical service possible.

An adequate hospital is as vital to a growing community as are schools, law enforcement agencies, libraries and other public institutions. Our residents are entitled to and deserve the best in medical service. New citizens moving here expect it.

Berger Hospital currently faces a financial crisis. A half-million levy which will be decided at Tuesday's election would do much to correct this situation, plus pave the way for improved service and facilities.

The levy goal is to bolster the hospital's general operating fund which presently shows a deficit of about $35,000. Money derived, approximately $70,000 annually over a period of five years, would offset this debt and set the stage for planned improvements necessary to any institution.

Better services and facilities, in turn, would lead to a brighter economic outlook. More persons would utilize Berger — a key factor in making the hospital financially self-sustaining.

Berger's Board of Governors, a dedicated group of men who serve without pay, has searched long and hard to find a solution to the hospital's financial ills. The levy is considered as the only means at hand. Officials have made it known that monetary assistance is not available from city and county government sources.

Berger is a non-profit institution that now has no direct tax support. Its operational funds must come from fees for services provided.

We all know taxes are high. But we must consider the ever-present need for medical facilities as they apply to our future growth, prosperity and well-being.

We feel the 50 cents per $1,000 property valuation the levy asks is by no means an excessive cost for adequate medical protection. We hold the firm conviction this community cannot afford to be without a hospital, or even a curtailment of services. No one wants to drive a long distance to an out-of-county hospital when confronted with an emergency.

We consider Berger Hospital essential to Pickaway County. It is our hope voters will reflect the same decision.

Rhodes Orders Master Communications Center

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—A master educational communication center "that will put Ohio in the No. 1 position in the field of radio and television" became another project on Gov. James A. Rhodes' growing list of state facilities today.

He ordered Chancellor John Millett and the Board of Regents to start planning the project at once.

Addressing the annual session of the Ohio Association of Broadcasters here, the governor said: "We are striving for excellence in all areas of higher education."

"This is another example of the Board of Regents' determination to provide Ohio higher education with the finest facilities."

He said the center would be on the state fairgrounds and be operated by Ohio State University in association with Miami, Ohio and Bowling Green State universities. Other state universities and privately endowed universities are expected to participate, the governor said.

The governor said the complete facility would give higher education in Ohio "the finest radio-television educational facilities of any state in the nation and be rivaled only by the major networks."

Initial plans call for expansion of educational television facilities now offered by the state universities, and eventually, an electronic nerve center for the Highway Patrol, Department of Highways, Natural Resources Department and Civil Defense.

Laboratory facilities are to be a part of the communication center for use by schools in instruction, research and experimentation in electronic communication.

Construction of ultramodern radio-television studios, a television mobile unit and recording facilities, all equipped for colorcasting, as well as special telephone and teletypewriter facilities for Ohio broadcasters and newspaper services are included in the plans.

Minnesota State Insurance Chief Indicted in Fraud

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP)—A federal grand jury indicted Minnesota State Insurance Commissioner Cyrus E. Magnusson and 16 other men today on charges of mail fraud and conspiracy to defraud.

The defendants were accused of carrying out their scheme through 15 firms headed by Phillip Kitzer Sr. of Chicago and his sons, Phillip Jr. and Joseph F. Kitzer.

The investigation centered on the American Allied Insurance Co. of St. Paul, which was declared insolvent in August with some $1.2 million in debts.

The indictment contended that about $4 million of premium money paid into American Allied "went to Phillip Kitzer Sr., Phillip Kitzer Jr. and Joseph F. Kitzer, their companies and for their benefit."

Maine Town Gets 4-Inch Snowfall

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Chilling temperatures and 4 inches of snow hit the North-eastern quarter of the nation today.

Northerly winds swirled the snow from New England to eastern Ohio, with 4 inches reported at Greenville, in central Maine. Other parts of the state also received several inches of snow.

Western Pennsylvania and parts of New York reported falls up to 1 inch. New York City had light snow flurries Thursday night — the first recorded snow of the season.

Another cold front stretched from central Montana across Northern California, while the North Central States shivered a bit in seasonably cool weather.

Most of the rest of the nation, excluding the Los Angeles area, enjoyed clear skies and comfortable fall temperatures.

In Los Angeles, the mercury pushed past 90 degrees Thursday for the ninth straight day, aggravating the city's worst smog attack in a decade.

The freezing line early today extended from the lower New England coast through Kentucky to Wisconsin. One of the lowest temperatures reported was 15 at Bradford, Pa. Top mark was 75 at Key West, Fla.

Military Lowers Its Requirements

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Defense Department says that the Army, Navy and Marines now will accept volunteers with lower ratings on qualification tests if they have successfully completed high school.

Officials explained Thursday that the lower standards are needed to make more youths eligible for enlistments. One result, they said, could be a reduction in draft calls.

The minimum score on the Armed Forces Qualification Test will be dropped 5 points—to a total of 16—for high school graduates.

Admiral's Ashes Shot into Sea from Torpedo Tube

KEY WEST, Fla. (AP)—The ashes of a heroic World War II admiral were buried today at sea — shot from a submarine's torpedo tube.

Rear Adm. Hiram Cassedy, 62, of Fairhaven, Mass., had requested this kind of burial. He died Oct. 13 at Lacombe, La.

Personnel of the submarine Barracuda in full dress whites conducted the services 20 miles from Key West and 180 feet beneath the Atlantic.

An honor guard of six and an officer and a petty officer placed the funeral package in firing position. Lt. Cmdr. George D. Ellis ordered "shoot the tube."

Cassedy commanded the submarine Sea Raven and Tigrone in the Pacific during the war. He won the Navy Cross for the daring rescue of 33 Australian army personnel trapped on the Japanese-held island of Timor. He was credited with rescuing 31 downed allied aviators, a record, during the war.

Defense Counsel's Effort To Remove Trial Judge Fails

Efforts of Defense Attorney Emanuel Nadlin to remove Judge William Ammer from a first-degree murder trial failed here yesterday afternoon by an order of William Brown of the Fourth District Court of Appeals.

Nadlin filed an affidavit of prejudice against Judge Ammer. He primarily contended the presiding judge would not order newsmen to refrain from taking pictures of his client.

Judge Brown dismissed the affidavit during a special hearing which lasted about an hour yesterday afternoon. The appellate judge based his decision on a 1963 state legislature ruling that prescribes such an affidavit must be filed three days prior to the trial's outset.

At the beginning of the appeals court hearing, Prosecutor Robert Huffer asked that the affidavit be dismissed on the grounds of the three-day ruling.

NADLIN claimed the situation didn't exist at that time and that it did not happen until seating of the jury was under way. Huffer restated his objection and noted that the defense counsel was seeking "remedy to which he was not entitled."

Keaton's attorney compared the local situation with that of the Dr. Sam Sheppard murder case. Nadlin said that the U.S. District Court at Dayton released Sheppard because of new interference. He said he was aware that Keaton's case was not of the same magnitude, but it was just as important since his client was on trial for his life.

Nadlin contended that stories, printed primarily in The Circleville Herald, were influencing jurors. He charged that The Herald was not printing the stories and pictures as news value, but "for publicity sake."

Prosecutor Huffer emphasized that his opponent, Nadlin, had no right to interfere with the freedom of the press as provided in the constitution.

For the court record, Nadlin was sworn as a witness and took the stand. He repeated his objections to the court's refusal to prohibit photographs. He entered several stories and pictures printed in The Herald as exhibits of record.

Huffer asked Nadlin what he thought the court should do. From the witness stand, the only answer he would offer, was that "it was a question of law for the court." He finally stated it was the judge's duty to control the movements and conduct of the defendant which could in effect prohibit photographs.

Judge Brown, after about 20 minutes of research and studying the case, returned to the court room with his decision to dismiss the affidavit. He ruled there was insufficient evidence to prove the judge was prejudiced in any way.

B52s Chalk Up 55th Viet Raid

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—U.S. B52 bombers from Guam struck 45 miles northwest of Saigon today in the 55th raid of the Viet Nam war by the Strategic Air Command jets.

The B52s' target was a suspected Viet Cong storage area in Tay Ninh Province, which borders on Cambodia.

There was no report of results of the bombing. A U.S. spokesman said a Vietnamese ground force was scheduled to go into the area following the strike, but the operation was canceled because of bad weather.

The B52 strike headed another day of intense air action, much of it carried out in provincial areas near the capital.

A U.S. military spokesman announced that six U.S. paratroopers were killed and three were wounded Thursday by artillery fire from a friendly unit during an operation 12 miles northwest of Qui Nhon. The six men were members of the 101st Airborne Division.

The spokesman said the nine men were in a squad that inadvertently moved into the line of fire.

The spokesman had no other details. He said only U.S. forces were taking part in the operation in the Song Am Valley, about 260 miles northeast of Saigon, but he did not rule out the possibility that Vietnamese artillery might have been used to support the Americans.

The heavy air assaults around Saigon included one by four Skyraider fighter-bombers on an estimated Viet Cong battalion of troops about 25 miles west northwest of the capital, the spokesman said.

Forward air controllers spotted the big troop concentration in neighboring Hau Nghia Province and directed the Skyraider attack. The action continued into the late afternoon, but no results were reported.

A total of 230 combat sorties were flown across South Viet Nam in the 24-hour period ending at 6 a.m. today, the spokesman said.

Attacks also went on against North Viet Nam. Planes from the carrier Independence carried out five missions against warehouses and roads near Vinh before dawn, flares were dropped to light the targets.

In raids north of the border late Thursday, U.S. Air Force planes dumped 65 tons of bombs on bridges, military building areas and communications lines. They also attacked the Ban Tain communications station 130 miles southwest of Hanoi and the Na San airfield 100 miles west of Hanoi. No damage assessments were reported.

All planes returned safely, the spokesman said.

Destroyers of the 7th Fleet fired into widely separated coastal areas on seven support missions Thursday. Targets included infiltration points, supply and assembly areas and an arms factory. Spotter planes reported the Navy guns were on target, but there were no details of results.

In ground action reported today, 20 Viet Cong were killed in a multibattalion operation about 320 miles northeast of Saigon. Government casualties were described as light in the fighting Thursday in Quang Ngai Province.

Ted Lewis Endorses Berger Levy

Ted Lewis has made it known that he firmly endorses the half-million levy to provide additional funds for operating expenses at Berger Hospital.

Ted's endorsement was made yesterday by way of a telephone call from New York City. He said he only regrets it is impossible for him to be here to support the levy in person.

He cannot be here due to an unexpected engagement at the Latin Quarter in New York. He is substituting there for good friend Sophie Tucker who was suddenly taken ill and ordered to take a rest.

The famous Circleville son emphatically declared that Berger Hospital represents a key part of this community. He termed any curtailment of services as "a sad departure from the progressive attitude shown by Circleville in the past."

HE RATED the hospital function that is just as important as schools and other public institutions. He said he was speaking as a Circleville native, a property owner, a taxpayer and a person who wishes nothing but the best for the city.

The maestro extended his regrets for not being able to be here for Pumpkin Show. He, along with wife, Adah, also voiced appreciation to the many local merchants who remembered them on their recent wedding anniversary.

3 Shirkers Convicted In Viet Nam

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—A military court has convicted three enlisted men of the U.S. 1st Air Cavalry Division for refusing to serve in Viet Nam, a U.S. military spokesman said today.

The three refused to obey orders to board a troop train in the United States and later, at sea, refused an order to end a hunger strike.

The spokesman said the men, all privates, were Harold Brown, 22, of Stanford, Fla.; David Clark, 26, of Coral Gables, Fla., and Percy L. Green, 24, of Chicago.

All are Negroes. Each was sentenced to a bad-conduct discharge, forfeiture of pay and allowances and to a prison term at hard labor. Brown was sentenced to two years imprisonment, Clark to five, and Green to 10.

Green was also convicted of threatening to kill a noncommissioned officer and to harm his family.

All the men have the right of appeal, but there was no word whether they would.

The three had to await trial in Viet Nam because their commanding officer was not aboard the troopship Buckner.

About one-fifth of the 17,000 men in the 1st Air Cavalry Division are Negroes.

Sea Escape Route Closing

U.S. Completing Final Agreement

KEY WEST, Fla. (AP)—Fidel Castro slammed shut the water escape route from Cuba last midnight as thousands waited hopefully for the start of a U.S. airlift to Florida.

The State Department said only a few details remained to be settled before an agreement can be announced.

Castro said he would permit no more small boats to leave the official embarkation port of Camarioca on the ground the 90-mile passage of the Florida Straits is too risky. The U.S. Coast Guard has rescued hundreds of exiles from unseaworthy craft since the exodus began early this month.

An arrival here today, however, Felix Fernandez of Miami, said "they will keep coming for a while."

Fernandez, member of a crew of six returning from Camarioca, said he was told at the Cuban port "that no more boats would be permitted to enter there, but those already there—and there must be 200—will be permitted to take out refugees."

Forty-three refugees packed aboard Fernandez' 35-foot boat were transferred at sea to a Coast Guard vessel because of high seas.

The Coast Guard said at least one more boat, with 79 persons aboard, is expected from Cuba today.

Negro, 74, Continuing In College

COMPTON, Calif. (AP)—The formal education of Daniel Elmore just might go on as long as he lives.

Elmore is the Negro handyman who put all his 10 children through college before he got a high school diploma of his own, at 72.

Now he has finished his first year of college. He's still a handyman, at 74.

He will start his second year in Compton College in February. What subject there interests him most?

"Electronics," he said in an interview. "I have to make a dime, and now I also have to think about taking some of the strain off the muscles."

Elmore says he plans to stay in school until he has learned enough about radio and television repair to become proficient. He wants — after all these years — to have his own shop.

While his children were growing to maturity Elmore was a farmer in the Midwest.

Eight years ago the last of his children was graduated from college. A year later Elmore came to California, Bertha, the wife who bore his 10 children, had died in 1952. In 1959, he married again.

The Elmores live in a tidy corner house. The garden is perfectly tilled. The dwelling is in top repair.

Aleutians A-Test Expected Today

AMCHITKA ISLAND, Alaska (AP)—Favorable weather raised hopes today that a buried 80-kiloton thermonuclear device could be exploded after two postponements.

The $10-million test was scheduled for 4 p.m. EST. It was postponed Wednesday and Thursday because the wind was blowing from the test site toward the control tower seven miles away.

The test is designed to help distinguish nuclear blast shocks from natural earthquakes.

First Evidence Introduced After Lengthy Jury Seating

After 4½ days of seating a jury for the first-degree murder trial of Cleo V. Keaton, Dayton, the first evidence was introduced this morning.

Seven witnesses took the stand this morning — all subpoenaed by Prosecuting Attorney Robert H. Huffer. The prosecutor had indicated earlier he would have up to 15 witnesses.

also present at the scene, but would not get out of the sheriff's cruiser.

On the return trip to Circleville, jurors were also taken to Berger Hospital upon request of Nadlin. The reason for the trip to the hospital is expected to be brought out during the presentation of the case by the defense.

TODAY'S session began with opening statements by Huffer, representing the State of Ohio, followed by Nadlin.

In his opening remarks, Huffer explained to the jury that evidence would show that Keaton murdered Maurice Francis, 50, on Mar. 23, about two miles north of Williamsport, and took his automobile. He explained that a 22-calibre revolver was found in Keaton's possession when he was arrested and that his clothing was stained with the victim's blood. Huffer told the jury "we will prove this beyond a reasonable doubt." He said evidence will be introduced that will show Keaton killed Francis to get his car and there will be nothing proven that "will warrant mercy."

Defense Attorney Nadlin's opening statements to the jury were primarily concerned with the defendant's story of what happened on the night of Mar. 23.

Nadlin said that evidence will show that since Keaton was three years old he has been "mentally ill." According to the attorney, his client received a brain injury at that time which has affected his entire life since.

He informed the jury that Keaton's condition was discovered while he was serving time for an armed robbery that he was convicted of. Since then he has been a "loner," Nadlin said, and has not been able to hold a job or associate with other people.

Continuing his opening statements, Nadlin said that, sometime in the vicinity of March 15, Keaton was involved in three other shootings which resulted in the death of two people. He contended that Keaton "went into flight" and during this time he committed two kidnappings, traveled throughout Southern Ohio with the teen-agers, but brought them back to the Dayton area unharmed and released them.

HE CONTINUED with Keaton's story explaining the events which led up to Francis' death on Mar. 23.

Nadlin said that Keaton wrecked a car which he had stolen from Chillicothe and that Francis, on his way home from work at General Motors in Columbus, stopped to offer help.

According to Nadlin's story of the events prior to the killing, Francis told Keaton the incident should be reported to authorities. Keaton got into the car with Francis and they drove almost to Williamsport when Keaton

Defense Counsel's Effort To Remove Trial Judge Fails

Efforts of Defense Attorney Emanuel Nadlin to remove Judge William Ammer from a first-degree murder trial failed here yesterday afternoon by an order of William Brown of the Fourth District Court of Appeals.

Nadlin filed an affidavit of prejudice against Judge Ammer. He primarily contended the presiding judge would not order newsmen to refrain from taking pictures of his client.

Judge Brown dismissed the affidavit during a special hearing which lasted about an hour yesterday afternoon. The appellate judge based his decision on a 1963 state legislature ruling that prescribes such an affidavit must be filed three days prior to the trial's outset.

At the beginning of the appeals court hearing, Prosecutor Robert Huffer asked that the affidavit be dismissed on the grounds of the three-day ruling.

NADLIN claimed the situation didn't exist at that time and that it did not happen until seating of the jury was under way. Huffer restated his objection and noted that the defense counsel was seeking "remedy to which he was not entitled."

Keaton's attorney compared the local situation with that of the Dr. Sam Sheppard murder case. Nadlin said that the U.S. District Court at Dayton released Sheppard because of new interference. He said he was aware that Keaton's case was not of the same magnitude, but it was just as important since his client was on trial for his life.

Nadlin contended that stories, printed primarily in The Circleville Herald, were influencing jurors. He charged that The Herald was not printing the stories and pictures as news value, but "for publicity sake."

Prosecutor Huffer emphasized that his opponent, Nadlin, had no right to interfere with the freedom of the press as provided in the constitution.

For the court record, Nadlin was sworn as a witness and took the stand. He repeated his objections to the court's refusal to prohibit photographs. He entered several stories and pictures printed in The Herald as exhibits of record.

Huffer asked Nadlin what he thought the court should do. From the witness stand, the only answer he would offer, was that "it was a question of law for the court." He finally stated it was the judge's duty to control the movements and conduct of the defendant which could in effect prohibit photographs.

Judge Brown, after about 20 minutes of research and studying the case, returned to the court room with his decision to dismiss the affidavit. He ruled there was insufficient evidence to prove the judge was prejudiced in any way.

Ted's endorsement was made yesterday by way of a telephone call from New York City. He said he only regrets it is impossible for him to be here to support the levy in person.

He cannot be here due to an unexpected engagement at the Latin Quarter in New York. He is substituting there for good friend Sophie Tucker who was suddenly taken ill and ordered to take a rest.

The famous Circleville son emphatically declared that Berger Hospital represents a key part of this community. He termed any curtailment of services as "a sad departure from the progressive attitude shown by Circleville in the past."

HE RATED the hospital function that is just as important as schools and other public institutions. He said he was speaking as a Circleville native, a property owner, a taxpayer and a person who wishes nothing but the best for the city.

The maestro extended his regrets for not being able to be here for Pumpkin Show. He, along with wife, Adah, also voiced appreciation to the many local merchants who remembered them on their recent wedding anniversary.

3 Shirkers Convicted In Viet Nam

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—A military court has convicted three enlisted men of the U.S. 1st Air Cavalry Division for refusing to serve in Viet Nam, a U.S. military spokesman said today.

The three refused to obey orders to board a troop train in the United States and later, at sea, refused an order to end a hunger strike.

The spokesman said the men, all privates, were Harold Brown, 22, of Stanford, Fla.; David Clark, 26, of Coral Gables, Fla., and Percy L. Green, 24, of Chicago.

All are Negroes. Each was sentenced to a bad-conduct discharge, forfeiture of pay and allowances and to a prison term at hard labor. Brown was sentenced to two years imprisonment, Clark to five, and Green to 10.

Green was also convicted of threatening to kill a noncommissioned officer and to harm his family.

All the men have the right of appeal, but there was no word whether they would.

The three had to await trial in Viet Nam because their commanding officer was not aboard the troopship Buckner.

About one-fifth of the 17,000 men in the 1st Air Cavalry Division are Negroes.

Sea Escape Route Closing

U.S. Completing Final Agreement

KEY WEST, Fla. (AP) — Fidel Castro slammed shut the water escape route from Cuba last midnight as thousands waited hopefully for the start of a U.S. airlift to Florida.

The State Department said only a few details remained to be settled before an agreement can be announced.

Castro said he would permit no more small boats to leave the official embarkation port of Camarioca on the ground the 90-mile passage of the Florida Straits is too risky. The U.S. Coast Guard has rescued hundreds of exiles from unseaworthy craft since the exodus began early this month.

An arrival here today, however, Felix Fernandez of Miami, said "they will keep coming for a while."

Fernandez, member of a crew of six returning from Camarioca, said he was told at the Cuban port "that no more boats would be permitted to enter there, but those already there—and there must be 200—will be permitted to take out refugees."

Forty-three refugees packed aboard Fernandez' 35-foot boat were transferred at sea to a Coast Guard vessel because of high seas.

The Coast Guard said at least one more boat, with 79 persons aboard, is expected from Cuba today.

Negro, 74, Continuing In College

COMPTON, Calif. (AP) — The formal education of Daniel Elmore just might go on as long as he lives.

Elmore is the Negro handyman who put all his 10 children through college before he got a high school diploma of his own, at 72.

Now he has finished his first year of college. He's still a handyman, at 74.

He will start his second year in Compton College in February. What subject there interests him most?

"Electronics," he said in an interview. "I have to make a dime, and now I also have to think about taking some of the strain off the muscles."

Elmore says he plans to stay in school until he has learned enough about radio and television repair to become proficient. He wants — after all these years — to have his own shop.

While his children were growing to maturity Elmore was a farmer in the Midwest.

Eight years ago the last of his children was graduated from college. A year later Elmore came to California, Bertha, the wife who bore his 10 children, had died in 1952. In 1959, he married again.

The Elmore live in a tidy corner house. The garden is perfectly tilled. The dwelling is in top repair.

Aleutians A-Test Expected Today

AMCHITKA ISLAND, Alaska (AP) — Favorable weather raised hopes today that a buried 80-kiloton thermonuclear device could be exploded after two postponements.

The $10-million test was scheduled for 4 p.m. EST. It was postponed Wednesday and Thursday because the wind was blowing from the test site toward the control tower seven miles away.

The test is designed to help distinguish nuclear blast shocks from natural earthquakes.

All the above units are elements of Ohio's 37th Infantry Division.

Non-divisional units affected by the plan will include the 112th Transportation Battalion with headquarters in Middletown; 3583 Transportation Company, Eaton, and 2nd and 3rd Truck Platoons, Covington, 107th Armored Cavalry Regiment with headquarters in Cleveland;

Voters Will Act On 7 Tax Levies

Voters in Pickaway County will act on seven tax levies Tuesday when they visit the polls.

However, only one will be of a countywide nature. This is the half-mill levy for general operating expenses at Berger Hospital. It would be in effect for five years.

The others are of a localized nature. One is a school levy, submitted by the Logan Elm District.

The Logan Elm proposal calls for four mills to provide current operating expenses. It would extend for five years.

The other levies are: Williamsport — one mill for five years for current expenses and fire protection.

New Holland — one mill for street repair and construction and one mill for current expenses. Both are for five years.

Deercreek Twp. — three mills for five years for the purpose of constructing, reconstructing, resurfacing, improving or repairing public roads.

Saltercreek Twp. — one mill for three years to provide protection against fire and to provide and maintain fire apparatus and appliances.

Three state issues will be on the ballot. Issue No. 1 would amend the school foundation structure and increase sales tax by one cent to support the program.

Issue No. 3 is an amendment to authorize the creation of an urban service authority. Issue No. 3 is an amendment to authorize the same person to serve as judge of more than one court in counties having less than 40,000 population.

CHS Coach To Speak at Scout Event

Paul Starr, head football coach at Circleville High School, will be the featured speaker when area Boy Scout and Cub Scout leaders assemble for a scouting roundtable Monday.

The event is scheduled for 7:30 p. m. at the Lutheran Church Parish House, according to David Schneider, Pickaway district scout commissioner.

The theme for Starr's talk will be youth physical fitness. It will be illustrated by a demonstration of homemade muscle builders and various isometric exercises which can be incorporated in physical conditioning programs for individual scout organizations.

Also on the meeting agenda will be a Cub Scout session covering den and pack games, Christmas craft projects, proper uniforming and a special "surprise" feature for use at Christmas parties.

Assisting Schneider with arrangements for the meeting are Roundtable commissioners Dennis Johnson, Wayne Smith and Ken Hostetler.

ton became frightened and wanted Francis to take him back to the car.

On the return trip to the wrecked car, Nadlin said Francis noticed Keaton's gun which was stuck in his clothing at the waist. "Francis hit the brakes and fell forward striking his head and at the same time Keaton's gun fell onto the seat of the auto."

Nadlin said Keaton told him both men "grabbed for the gun and in the course of the struggle, one bullet was discharged from the gun. The struggle continued but Keaton "has no recollection of more shots."

When Francis' body was found there were three bullet wounds in his right side, according to other evidence.

Nadlin claimed that Keaton attempted to help Francis and started to take him to the hospital when the door of the left side of the car opened and the wounded man fell out. Keaton allegedly got out of the car and offered further assistance when another car approached and he fled the scene in Francis' car.

Prosecutor Huffer's first witness in the case was Lester Fletcher, Williamsport, who first discovered the body on the highway. Fletcher testified that he was returning from work at General Motors at about 1:30 a. m. on March 23rd when he spotted the wrecked car and Francis' body about 400 feet away from the car. He notified the sheriff's office and Deputy John Wolford was dispatched to the scene.

On cross - examination, Nadlin had Fletcher to point out again that Francis' body "was still warm" when he arrived and that there was a pulse beat.

HUFFER's second witness was Ross Fletcher, who lived about 1 1/2 miles from the Francis home on the same farm.

The third witness for the prosecution was Miss Joan Mader, Chillicothe. It was her car that Keaton allegedly stole at gunpoint the night before at the Central Shopping Center in Chillicothe. She identified Keaton and pictures of the wrecked car taken at the scene of the alleged murder.

Deputy Sheriff John Wolford then took the stand for the case against Keaton. "I've told of the events that occurred on the night of Francis' death and the investigation that followed. Other exhibits were introduced as evidence including the jacket that Francis was wearing when he was shot and pictures of the body and automobiles involved.

Following this afternoon's proceedings, court was to adjourn until 9 a. m. Monday.

Two Suspects Face Forgery Counts Here

Police Sgt. Leroy Hawks of the Circleville Department today said charges of forgery will be lodged against a Lancaster pair presently held by authorities in Fairfield County.

Sgt. Hawks identified one as Woodrow Holbrook, 19. The other is a 17-year-old juvenile.

According to the local department, the pair had stolen a quantity of checks from a Lancaster lumber firm. At least two of them were passed locally — one at Super-X Drug Store and another at Bingman Drugs.

Checks were also passed in Logan, Canal Winchester, Lancaster and other surrounding communities, officers said. Authorities believe the pair forged checks totaling $1,000 or more.

The discovery and apprehension of the two suspects was made through the cooperation of the Circleville and Lancaster Police Departments, according to Chief Robert Temple.

Wife of GI Ridicules Burners of Draft Cards

NEW YORK (AP) — Mrs. Frances Anderson, wife of a Marine hero in Viet Nam, says she doesn't think much of anyone who would burn his draft card.

"I think they should be shot over there instead of my husband. They're just a lot of loudmouths," she said Thursday after learning her husband had beaten the Viet Cong at their own game of ambush.

Her husband, Sgt. John Anderson, with 12 men repulsed a force of more than 100 Communist guerrillas headed for an attack on the Da Nang air base.

Concerning draft card burners and anti-Viet Nam demonstrators, Anderson wrote his wife that "they should send them over and see what's going on. Maybe they'd change their mind and see if they could fight."

But he added that he didn't think he's want one in his outfit because he said he couldn't trust them.

Meanwhile, workingmen and college students have received calls to rally in support of U.S. policy on Viet Nam.

The calls came from:

1. The AFL-CIO leadership which said the tide has turned in the fighting.

2. A group of student leaders aroused by the protests of what they called "a small noisy minority" on campuses.

AFL-CIO President George Meany said Thursday: "We expect our people to act locally to counter any antigovernment demonstrations." Asked how this will be done, Meany said, "That will be up to them."

A statement of the AFL-CIO Executive Council said:

"The turn of the tide in the struggle confirms the soundness of our government's policy of defeating the forces of Communist subversion and aggression and promoting social and economic reconstruction."

A group of student leaders met at Georgetown University Thursday and launched what they hope will be a nationwide, bipartisan "Student Committee for the Defense of Viet Nam."

Tom Pauken, 21, of Dallas, Tex., national chairman of College Young Republicans, hit at what he called a "small noisy minority" of students who are getting attention by demonstrations against government policy.

Meantime Dr. Benjamin Spock, baby care specialist who is critical of both sides in the struggle over Viet Nam, met with other planners of a Nov. 27 march on Washington in behalf of negotiated peace.

Asked if he approved the burning of draft cards and similar acts of protest, he said he knew some of the students involved and that they are sincere and patriotic.

But he would not do such things, he said, because they are too easily "twisted" and interpreted as treasonable.

School Districts To Elect Board Members Tuesday

Of major importance to Pickaway County voters on Tuesday will be the election of school board members.

There will be two elected from a field of three candidates for the Circleville school board; three elected, with three on the ballot, for the county board; Logan Elm District voters will elect three from a field of seven candidates; Westfall voters will elect two out of four as will Teays Valley.

Candidates for each of the school boards are:

County — Wendell Evans, Route 1, New Holland; Ralph E. Betz, Route 1, Stoutsville; James W. Moody, Route 1, Groveport.

Circleville — Rosemary J. Mader, 160 Pinckney St.; Richard Bowers, 921 Circle Drive; John D. Robinson, Route 3, Circleville.

Logan Elm — Walter Fox, Tarlton; Wilma M. Fraumfelter, Route 4; Carl Fry, Route 2, Amanda; Roger D. Hobbie, Route 1; Charles E. Jones, Route 4; Arthur A. Leist, Route 1, Stoutsville; Carolyn H. McCoy, Route 3.

Westfall — Robert O. Barnes, Route 1, Williamsport; Ned Hosier, Route 2, Orient; Cooke Metzger, Route 2, Williamsport; Donald W. Schleich, Route 1, Williamsport.

Teays Valley — Charles A. Ellyson, Route 2, Ashville; Edward M. Hicks, Route 2, Orient; William D. Hinkle, Route 2, Ashville; William O. Huston, Route 1, Ashville.

Lumber Firm Entry Probed

A burglary at 84 Lumber Co. north of Circleville is being probed today by the Pickaway County Sheriff's Department.

The entry occurred during the night. A vending machine was forced and an undetermined amount of change was taken.

Deputy Warren Straley, the investigating officer, said nothing else was taken, although a thorough search had apparently been made by the intruders for money.

According to lumber company officials, no money is kept in the establishment overnight.

Entry was gained by forcing the rear doors.

Stock Prices Climb Again

NEW YORK (AP)—A rebound by American Telephone highlighted an irregularly rising stock market early this afternoon.

Trading was fairly active, but at the lightest rate of the week.

AT&T's recovery followed its plunge of 1 1/2 Thursday when it paced the market to a decline. Wall Street reports were that financial institutions were picking up the stock—most widely held issue on the Big Board—and it was recommended by some big investment houses.

Chrysler, whose doubled dividend spurred it to pace recovery move by the entire market late hursday, moved still higher early today, then stumbled abruptly on profit taking.

Airlines were mildly but solidly ahead. Some aerospace issues gained a point or 2. Steels, oils and motors were mixed.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up .4 at 355.2 with industrials up .8, rails off .3 and utilities up .4.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was up .94 at 960.95.

this country will be taken from Cuba first.

They will be flown in commercial planes to Miami at the rate of about 200 daily.

Later, other categories of dissatisfied Cubans may be allowed to leave. The airlift could last for many months. It will be the first regular contact between the two countries since flights were suspended in 1962.

Since Prime Minister Castro agreed to let anyone leave, 3,000 have made the trip for fear he would change his mind before diplomatic red tape could be cut.

Thursday, the Coast Guard rescued 82 Cubans from eight boats floundering in the heavy sea. Since the first boat arrived under Castro's open-door policy Oct. 7, the Coast Guard has rescued exiles from about 50 boats. There is no way to estimate how many were lost.

To end this haphazard exodus, the United States has been pressing for agreement on a formal evacuation program. At least three notes have been delivered to the Cuban government. The final one was carried to Havana by Emil Stadelhofer, Swiss ambassador who handles U.S. relations, after a trip to Washington.

On the return trip to the wrecked car, Nadlin said Francis noticed Keaton's gun which was stuck in his clothing at the waist. "Francis hit the brakes and fell forward striking his head and at the same time Keaton's gun fell onto the seat of the auto."

Nadlin said Keaton told him both men "grabbed for the gun and in the course of the struggle, one bullet was discharged from the gun. The struggle continued but Keaton "has no recollection of more shots."

When Francis' body was found there were three bullet wounds in his right side, according to other evidence.

Nadlin claimed that Keaton attempted to help Francis and started to take him to the hospital when the door of the left side of the car opened and the wounded man fell out. Keaton allegedly got out of the car and offered further assistance when another car approached and he fled the scene in Francis' car.

Prosecutor Huffer's first witness in the case was Lester Fletcher, Williamsport, who first discovered the body on the highway. Fletcher testified that he was returning from work at General Motors at about 1:30 a. m. on March 23rd when he spotted the wrecked car and Francis' body about 400 feet away from the car. He notified the sheriff's office and Deputy John Wolford was dispatched to the scene.

On cross-examination, Nadlin had Fletcher to point out again that Francis' body "was still warm" when he arrived and that there was a pulse beat.

TUFFER's second witness was Ross Fletcher, who lived about 1½ miles from the Francis home on the same farm.

The third witness for the prosecution was Miss Joan Mader, Chillicothe. It was her car that Keaton allegedly stole at gunpoint the night before at the Central Shopping Center in Chillicothe. She identified Keaton and pictures of the wrecked car taken at the scene of the alleged murder.

Deputy Sheriff John Wolford then took the stand for the case against Keaton. He told of the events that occurred on the night of Francis' death and the investigation that followed. Other exhibits were introduced as evidence including the jacket that Francis was wearing when he was shot and pictures of the body and automobiles involved.

Following this afternoon's proceedings, court was to adjourn until 9 a. m. Monday.

Pumpkin Stealers Fined $50 Each

Two Cleveland men, charged with taking a prize pumpkin from the display at the corner of Court and Main Sts. last week, paid $50 fines in Circleville Municipal Court.

They were Paul F. Kane and Thomas Stevens. Both entered pleas of guilty to the charges filed by Circleville Police.

Public Works Bill OK'd

JOHNSON CITY, Tex. (AP)—President Johnson signed a $4.3-billion public works appropriation bill Thursday providing funds for the planning and construction of flood-control, navigation and reclamation.

Gasoline Stolen

Dave Huffer, 213½ E. Main St., told Circleville Police gasoline was taken from his car while it was parked at the rear of his home last night. He estimated the loss at 10 gallons.

Wife of GI Ridicules Burners of Draft Cards

NEW YORK (AP) — Mrs. Frances Anderson, wife of a Marine hero in Viet Nam, says she doesn't think much of anyone who would burn his draft card.

"I think they should be shot over there instead of my husband. They're just a lot of loudmouths," she said Thursday after learning her husband had beaten the Viet Cong at their own game of ambush.

Her husband, Sgt. John Anderson, with 12 men repulsed a force of more than 100 Communist guerrillas headed for an attack on the Da Nang air base.

Concerning draft card burners and anti-Viet Nam demonstrators, Anderson wrote his wife that "they should send them over and see what's going on. Maybe they'd change their mind and see if they could fight."

But he added that he didn't think he's want one in his outfit because he said he couldn't trust them.

Meanwhile, workingmen and college students have received calls to rally in support of U.S. policy on Viet Nam.

The calls came from:

1. The AFL-CIO leadership which said the tide has turned in the fighting.

2. A group of student leaders aroused by the protests of what they called "a small noisy minority" on campuses.

AFL-CIO President George Meany said Thursday: "We expect our people to act locally to counter any antigovernment demonstrations." Asked how this will be done, Meany said, "That will be up to them."

A statement of the AFL-CIO Executive Council said:

"The turn of the tide in the struggle confirms the soundness of our government's policy of defeating the forces of Communist subversion and aggression and promoting social and economic reconstruction."

A group of student leaders met at Georgetown University Thursday and launched what they hope will be a nationwide, bipartisan "Student Committee for the Defense of Viet Nam."

Tom Pauken, 21, of Dallas, Tex., national chairman of College Young Republicans, hit at what he called a "small noisy minority" of students who are getting attention by demonstrations against government policy.

Meantime Dr. Benjamin Spock, baby care specialist who is critical of both sides in the struggle over Viet Nam, met with other planners of a Nov. 27 march on Washington in behalf of negotiated peace.

Asked if he approved the burning of draft cards and similar acts of protest, he said he knew some of the students involved and that they are sincere and patriotic.

But he would not do such things, he said, because they are too easily "twisted" and interpreted as treasonable.

Lumber Firm Entry Probed

A burglary at 84 Lumber Co. north of Circleville is being probed today by the Pickaway County Sheriff's Department.

The entry occurred during the night. A vending machine was forced and an undetermined amount of change was taken.

Deputy Warren Straley, the investigating officer, said nothing else was taken, although a thorough search had apparently been made by the intruders for money.

According to lumber company officials, no money is kept in the establishment overnight.

Entry was gained by forcing the rear doors.

Stock Prices Climb Again

NEW YORK (AP)—A rebound by American Telephone highlighted an irregularly rising stock market early this afternoon.

Trading was fairly active, but at the lightest rate of the week. AT&T's recovery followed its plunge of 1½ Thursday when it paced the market to a decline. Wall Street reports were that financial institutions were picking up the stock—most widely held issue on the Big Board—and it was recommended by some big investment houses.

Chrysler, whose doubled dividend spurred it to pace recovery move by the entire market late Thursday, moved still higher early today, then stumbled abruptly on profit taking.

Airlines were mildly but solidly ahead. Some aerospace issues gained a point or 2. Steels, oils and motors were mixed.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up .4 at 355.2 with industrials up .8, rails off .3 and utilities up .4.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was up .94 at 960.05.

Sea Escape

They will be flown in commercial planes to Miami at the rate of about 200 daily.

Later, other categories of dissatisfied Cubans may be allowed to leave. The airlift could last for many months. It will be the first regular contact between the two countries since flights were suspended in 1962.

Since Prime Minister Castro agreed to let anyone leave, 3,000 have made the trip for fear he would change his mind before diplomatic red tape could be cut.

Thursday, the Coast Guard rescued 82 Cubans from eight boats floundering in the heavy sea. Since the first boat arrived under Castro's open-door policy Oct. 7, the Coast Guard has rescued exiles from about 50 boats. There is no way to estimate how many were lost.

To end this haphazard exodus, the United States has been pressing for agreement on a formal evacuation program. At least three notes have been delivered to the Cuban government. The final one was carried to Havana by Emil Stadelhofer, Swiss ambassador who handles U.S. relations, after a trip to Washington.

New Holland Driver Forfeits Two Bonds

Roumie G. Glasco, 22, New Holland, forfeited two bonds in Circleville Municipal Court when he failed to appear for a court hearing.

Cited by the Highway Patrol, he forfeited a $50 bond for speeding 85 miles per hour in a 50 mile zone and a $19 bond for driving a motor vehicle not equipped with a legal muffler.

Allen Lee Cook, 20, Williamsport, forfeited a $60 bond he had posted when charged with reckless operation.

Other motorists on the court docket were:

David Carmon, 18, Pedro, and Robert Davis, 29, Columbus; $24 bond forfeitures for speeding 75 miles per hour in a 60 mile zone.

Carl Gibson, 37, Columbus and Paul Fraley, 25, Paintsville, Ky.; $15 and costs for speeding 75 miles per hour in a 60 mile zone.

Dewey Snyder, 67, Orient; $10 and costs for failure to obey a traffic control device.

H. O. Seymour, 20, Mt. Sterling; $15 and costs for passing without an assured clear distance ahead.

Dennis Pickens, 23, 127 Park St.; $24 bond forfeiture for failure to heed a stop sign.

Spooks Will March

Halloween, the evening preceding All Saints' Day, once again approaches. Spooks, goblins, costumes, apple cider and window soaping are again the order of the day. And once again advantage will be taken of the festive occasion by those whose "pranks" border on vandalism.

Probably no annual celebration has undergone such an evolution as has Halloween. Originally a religious holiday, it now has become a combination of New Year's Eve and a Mardi Gras type costume ball. Youngsters of pre-high school age, whose eager faces and innocent hands once sought the fruits of "tricks or treats," are now replaced all too often by those in their late teens (or older), whose main objective seems to be to raise a rumpus on this eerie night.

Abundant evidence of the destructive force which cloaks itself under the guise of Halloween will soon appear in news dispatches from all parts of the United States. It is up to each of the parents of this community to see that his or her child is not on this list.

Because of the destruction caused on Halloween, the tendency in recent years has been to abolish, or greatly curtail, the activities of the younger set on this one evening which should be theirs.

It is not necessary to eliminate the youngsters' fun at Halloween because of the antics of their older brothers and sisters. Nor should it be necessary for the community's law officers to engage in unusual patrols, creating a sense of fear in even the youngest child.

What is needed is a return to the lost art of parental companionship. It is not too much for a child to ask of his parents a costume, a paper bag and an escort around the neighborhood on Halloween. This is all it takes to return Halloween to the little people.

NEW YORK (P) — U.S. corporations have pushed their profits close to the $45-billion mark. After-tax income in the third quarter of 1965 ran about 17 per cent above the 1964 period, early reports indicate.

Almost all major industries share in this year's gains, although steel makers show a mixed pattern, so do tobacco companies. In the oil, motors, electronics, rail, airline, and utility fields, company after company reports record earnings.

Speaking of YOUR HEALTH...

By LESTER L. COLKMAN, M.D.

Where is the gall bladder located and what purpose does it serve?

The gall bladder is a small sac that lies just beneath the liver in the upper right part of the abdomen. It is connected by tiny tubes to the liver from which it receives bile and stores it until it is needed for digestion.

When fatty food passes from the stomach into the small intestine, the gall bladder contracts and sends a spurt of bile directly into the small intestine. Here the bile mixes with the food, digests it and breaks it down into its nutritive substances.

Fresh Look at Things

By John Chamberlain

Does the Negro like what is currently being done for him under the anti-poverty programs that have their origins in Washington, D. C.?

It's a good question, and there are probably twenty or thirty different answers to it. But the most challenging answer of all is one offered by a bright young Negro writer named Myrna Bain, who is one of the founders of a new Negro magazine called Advance, published in Newark, New Jersey.

I've run into Myrna Bain a couple of times while covering political meetings. She is a recent graduate of Hunter College in New York City, and what struck me about her was her ability to ask uninhibited and entirely unconventional questions. She wasn't being a "Negro," nor was she being a "conservative" or a "liberal." She was just an original. Now I come upon an entirely unorthodox discussion of socialism under her by-line in Advance. She begins by quoting a young Negro worker of Danville, Virginia, who remarked in a moment of frustration that "the Negroes were the first and to a large extent the only American citizens to experience socialism throughout their history in the Northern hemisphere." Miss Bain remarks that "slavery as a synonym for socialism is a very strange and unusual concept." But she finds much that is relevant in the comparison.

"To the extent that a slave, any slave, is not free to do as he or she pleases with her life and property," she says, "to the extent that the old slave masters provided food, shelter and burial for their chattels, to the extent that all slaves were treated equally as slaves (whether in the house or field), to that extent slavery approximates and carries out 'the cradle to grave' protection and 'equal distribution' of wealth and property that is inherent in all socialist doctrine."

Miss Bain goes on from this point to suggest that "the current anti-poverty program plus its previous predecessors, such as the WPA, CCC and Aid to Dependent Children," has all too much in common with the "old system of paternalistic slavery." She finds excuses for the WPA-CCC approach as it was adapted under emergency conditions back in the depression period of the Nineteen Thirties. But "today is 1965," and the welfare recipients of the Sixties, "while they are receiving monthly checks to buy food and pay the rent are doing so under conditions and with results that keep them in a continuous and everlasting cycle of poor rat-infested apartments, crowded rooming houses, crime laden streets and poor schools for their children and no real hope for their future."

Miss Bain does not tell us how the cycle of "relief socialism" can be broken. "But somewhere," she says, "at some time, for the true needs of the poor clients will have to be considered. For it is not too harsh under the present situation to call the whole concept and execution of welfare a studied and ever - self-perpetuating boondoggle to enslave the poor and make the merchants and credit companies and slum landlords rich."

If Miss Bain is the harbinger of a new line of Negro thought, it is a most encouraging manifestation. For it is entirely possible for the slum dweller, no matter what his race, to break out of the cycle of dependence on "charity socialism." This was demonstrated by Saul Alinsky's original "back of the yards" movement in Chicago. When he was first setting up in business as a "radical" organizer of the poor, Saul Alinsky refused to go to City Hall or Washington for help. What he did was to organize a district to clean itself up and to appoint committees to go out and recruit new businesses to provide employment within the area. The original "back of the yards" program was ideologically insured against bogging down into "relief socialism" by its quality of self-respect. It envisioned "floating off" the slum dwellers as self-sufficient wage-earners in a cleaned-up environment.

I don't know what Miss Bain and the editors of Advance have in mind as a cure for the situation which produces "charity socialism" and a new "slavery." But their magazine is taking a new, fresh look at things, and it suggests exciting possibilities.

Speaking of YOUR HEALTH...

By LESTER L. COLEMAN, M.D.

Where is the gall bladder located and what purpose does it serve?

The gall bladder is a small sac that lies just beneath the liver in the upper right part of the abdomen. It is connected by tiny tubes to the liver from which it receives bile and stores it until it is needed for digestion.

When fatty food passes from the stomach into the small intestine, the gall bladder contracts and sends a spurt of bile directly into the small intestine. Here the bile mixes with the food, digests it and breaks it down into its nutritive substances.

What is responsible for disease of the gall bladder?

The lining of the gall bladder is subject to bacterial infections, irritation and inflammation. When the lining becomes thickened, the bile moves less freely, and there is a greater tendency for the formation of gall bladder stones.

Inadequate metabolism of fats and cholesterol, obesity and chronic alcoholism also contribute to the formation of stones.

Gall bladder stones are said to occur in about 25 per cent of all people, mostly in women, and particularly during early and late middle age. In fact, an adage describing gall bladder disease says it occurs in people who are "fat, fair and forty."

What are the symptoms of disease of the gall bladder?

Upper abdominal pain that shoots to the back and to the shoulder blades, abdominal cramps, bouts of indigestion, nausea and belching suggest the possibility of some disorder of the gall bladder.

Irritations of the stomach, the pancreas and the small intestine may produce symptoms almost identical. Therefore substantiation of the diagnosis must be made by your doctor.

How do doctors definitely make the diagnosis?

A special dye, either taken by mouth, or painlessly injected into a vein, reaches the gall bladder and bile ducts.

The speed with which the gall bladder empties the dye is studied by X-ray, and indicates whether or not it is functioning properly.

The size and position of calcium stones can also be seen by X-ray.

Is surgery always necessary to cure gall bladder disease?

Each gall bladder problem is an individual one. Rigid fat-free diets, antibiotics and pain-killing drugs may keep some cases of gall bladder disease under control.

Stones cannot yet be dissolved by any known method.

The decision for surgery depends on the severity of infection, the frequency of attacks and jaundice due to obstructing stones.

With today's excellent anesthesia, surgery of the gall bladder is exceedingly safe and brings gratifying results.

Children derive a great sense of security when their parents establish firm and reasonable limits to their social and physical activity.

Fresh Look at Things

By John Chamberlain

Does the Negro like what is currently being done for him under the anti-poverty programs that have their origins in Washington, D. C.?

It's a good question, and there are probably twenty or thirty different answers to it. But the most challenging answer of all is one offered by a bright young Negro writer named Myrna Bain, who is one of the founders of a new Negro magazine called Advance, published in Newark, New Jersey.

I've run into Myrna Bain a couple of times while covering political meetings. She is a recent graduate of Hunter College in New York City, and what struck me about her was her ability to ask uninhibited and entirely unconventional questions. She wasn't being a "Negro," nor was she being a "conservative" or a "liberal." She was just an original. Now I come upon an entirely unorthodox discussion of socialism under her by-line in Advance. She begins by quoting a young Negro worker of Danville, Virginia, who remarked in a moment of frustration that "the Negroes were the first and to a large extent the only American citizens to experience socialism throughout their history in the Northern hemisphere."

Miss Bain goes on from this point to suggest that "the current anti-poverty program plus its previous predecessors, such as the WPA, CCC and Aid to Dependent Children," has all too much in common with the "old system of paternalistic slavery."

She finds excuses for the WPA-CCC approach as it was adapted under emergency conditions back in the depression period of the Nineteen Thirties. But "today is 1965," and the welfare recipients of the Sixties, "while they are receiving monthly checks to buy food and pay the rent are doing so under conditions and with results that keep them in a continuous and everlasting cycle of poor rat-infested apartments, crowded rooming houses, crime laden streets and poor schools for their children and no real hope for their future."

Miss Bain does not tell us how the cycle of "relief socialism" can be broken. "But some where," she says, "at some time, for the true needs of the poor clients will have to be considered. For it is not too harsh under the present situation to call the whole concept and execution of welfare a studied and ever - self-perpetuating boondoggle to enslave the poor and make the merchants and credit companies and slum landlords rich."

If Miss Bain is the harbinger of a new line of Negro thought, it is a most encouraging manifestation. For it is entirely possible for the slum dweller, no matter what his race, to break out of the cycle of dependence on "charity socialism." This was demonstrated by Saul Alinsky's original "back of the yards" movement in Chicago. When he was first setting up in business as a "radical" organizer of the poor, Saul Alinsky refused to go to City Hall or Washington for help. What he did was to organize a district to clean itself up and to appoint committees to go out and recruit new businesses to provide employment within the area. The original "back of the yards" program was ideologically insured against bogging down into "relief socialism" by its quality of self-respect. It envisioned "floating off" the slum dwellers as self-sufficient wage-earners in a cleaned-up environment.

I don't know what Miss Bain and the editors of Advance have in mind as a cure for the situation which produces "charity socialism" and a new "slavery." But her magazine is taking a new, fresh look at things, and it suggests exciting possibilities.

Law Paving Way for Dixie Negro To Vote Is Landmark Enactment

EDITOR'S NOTE — The first session of the 89th Congress has quite a few "landmark" enactments to its credit. One deals with voting rights. The other deals with immigration. This is the last of five articles on the remarkable legislative output of '65.

By WALTER R. MEARS
WASHINGTON (AP) — More than 150,000 Southern Negroes who were not enrolled as voters when the 89th Congress convened now are registered to go to the polls.

The law that paved a path to the voting booth for Deep South Negroes may stand as one of the most far-reaching decisions in a year of legislative landmarks.

For it holds the roots of change that already is altering the political patterns of the Old Confederacy. White office holders and would-be candidates are adjusting to biracial politics in areas where the Negro vote once was ignored.

"I think you will see more of the moderate type candidate," said Sheriff Zollie R. Compton of Jefferson County, Ga.

Americans may see changes, too, in the makeup of immigration rosters. Congress has ordered an end to the 41-year-old system of immigration quotas based on national origins. That system was designed to preserve the ethnic balance that existed in the United States 45 years ago. President Johnson called it un-American.

The new law will be of particular significance to Americans who have close relatives seeking to come to the United States. People with close family ties in the United States will get special preference in immigration, as will foreigners who have skills that are needed in this country.

Under the old system, Great Britain, Ireland and Germany supplied more than 70 per cent of the immigrants who came to the United States each year. Quotas for southern European nations were far smaller, those for Asians, smallest of all.

The new program, to take effect over a three-year period, sets an annual quota of 120,000 immigrants for Western Hemisphere nations and 170,000 for the rest of the world.

There are no nation-by-nation quotas. But no more than 20,000 immigrants a year can come from any country outside the Western Hemisphere. That limit is less than one-third the annual quota allowed for British immigration under the old law.

The voting rights law, which Johnson signed on Aug. 6, suspended literacy tests and authorized federal registration of voters in seven Southern states.

So far, federal voting examiners have been sent to 20 counties where they were deemed essential to overcome resistance against Negro registration. This was the result through Oct. 19:

53,234 southern Negroes had enrolled with the federal officials. Another 1,556 white voters also had chosen that registration route.

The Justice Department estimated that across the Southern states affected by the bill, another 100,000 Negroes have been registered by local voting officials since the law took effect.

The voting rights bill has sent the government to court in an effort to strike down the poll taxes still required in state and local elections in Virginia, Texas, Mississippi and Alabama.

Another provision is designed to enfranchise thousands of Spanish-speaking people from Puerto Rico who now live in New York. It overrules the English language literacy requirement of New York State.

In addition, the new law makes federal election voting frauds and vote-buying federal crimes, carrying fines up to $5,000 and jail terms up to five years. Those offenses had been a state matter.

In another field, Congress voted President Johnson the weapons he sought for a national drive against crime. It approved a $10 million program of federal aid to help states and cities improve law enforcement practices and prison operations. And it provided another $1.5 million to finance two commissions studying steps to combat lawlessness in the District of Columbia and across the country.

Another measure regulates the sale of the drugs called pep pills and goof balls. Johnson said it, too, will help in the war against crime.

Congress approved still another set of laws for yet another Johnson war — this one against pollution of the nation's water and air.

An air pollution bill will require that, beginning with 1968 models, automobiles be built with exhaust controls to cut air pollution.

It also authorizes $96 million worth of research on air pollution, labeled by Johnson a national health problem.

As Johnson signed that bill — Oct. 20 — the Weather Bureau reported a smoggy day from northern New England to Washington, D.C. A mass of stagnant air was producing good weather — but at the same time holding dust and smoke in the atmosphere throughout the Northeast.

To deal with water pollution, Congress told the states to act within two years to set water quality standards on interstate waterways. If they don't, the federal government will take over and set the purity standards itself.

That law also boosted to $150 million the ceiling on federal aid for sewage disposal plant construction.

As he signed the bill, Johnson talked of rivers and streams turned into dumps for garbage and filth — and declared that within 25 years, people will be able to swim in lakes and rivers that now are polluted.

With the northeastern United States parched by drought, another new law authorizes $185 million in an effort to step up the program that seeks to economically turn salt water into fresh. Johnson set a 1970 goal for the jump from research to a practical desalting program that could ease the impact of future droughts.

(New Turbo-Jet V8)

(Even softer Jet-smooth ride)

'66 Chevrolet Impala Sport Coupe—one of 19 models with fine-sculptured new Body by Fisher

NOW! '66 CHEVROLET JET-SMOOTHER IMPALA

If you go by first impressions, you could get the idea this clean-honed new '66 is more car than you ever got in an Impala before. And you'd be right.

Take Chevrolet's newest V8's, for instance. They're based on the famed Turbo-Jet design with aircraft-type valves, freer breathing valve openings and other advances that deliver more efficient power than ever before.

Result: You can now order a 396-cubic-inch version with 325 hp. Or you can go for a 427-cubic-inch Turbo-Jet with up to 425 hp.

The ride, too, has reached a new Jet-smooth level of comfort. Chevrolet engineers went over the whole frame and body structure, refining here, honing there. They installed softer acting shock absorbers and even gave each body style its own specially tailored Full Coil springs.

And there's more in the way of those little extras—that come as standard equipment. Like backup lights, padded sun visors and instrument panel, outside rear-view mirror and windshield washer. More in the way of custom features you can order, too, including front-seat headrests, AM-FM stereo and automatic Comforton heating and air conditioning.

How come so many improvements have been made in a car that was already America's solid favorite? That, as you'll see when you check this one out at your dealer's, is what keeps it the favorite. Improvements.

See the new '66 Chevrolet, Chevelle, Chevy II, Corvair and Corvette at your Chevrolet dealer's.

*66 Chevrolet Impala Sport Sedan

MIGHTY SMOOTH
(New Turbo-Jet V8)
(Even softer Jet-smooth ride)

*66 Chevrolet Impala Sport Coupe—one of 19 models with fine-sculptured new Body by Fisher

NOW! '66 CHEVROLET JET-SMOOTHER IMPALA

If you go by first impressions, you could get the idea this clean-honed new '66 is more car than you ever got in an Impala before. And you'd be right.

Take Chevrolet's newest V8's, for instance. They're based on the famed Turbo-Jet design with aircraft-type valves, freer breathing valve openings and other advances that deliver more efficient power than ever before.

Result: You can now order a 396-cubic-inch version with 325 hp. Or you can go for a 427-cubic-inch Turbo-Jet with up to 425 hp.

The ride, too, has reached a new Jet-smooth level of comfort. Chevrolet engineers went over the whole frame and body structure, refining here, honing there. They installed softer acting shock absorbers and even gave each body style its own specially tailored Full Coil springs.

And there's more in the way of those little extras—that come as standard equipment. Like backup lights, padded sun visors and instrument panel, outside rear-view mirror and windshield washer. More in the way of custom features you can order, too, including front-seat headrests, AM-FM stereo and automatic Comforton heating and air conditioning.

How come so many improvements have been made in a car that was already America's solid favorite? That, as you'll see when you check this one out at your dealer's, is what keeps it the favorite. Improvements.

See the new '66 Chevrolet, Chevelle, Chevy II, Corvair and Corvette at your Chevrolet dealer's.

Engagement, Wedding Plans Are Announced

MARGUERITE DRUMM

Mr. and Mrs. Pearl Drumm of Marysville, announce the engagement of their daughter, Marguerite Elizabeth to Bruce Cardiff Wilson, son of Mrs. Wells Wilson and the late Dr. Wilson, Route 1.

The bride to be is a junior at Riverside White Cross School of Nursing.

Wilson is a senior at Ohio State University and will graduate from the college of engineering in December. The open church wedding will be an event of Dec. 19, at 2:30 p. m. in the New Dover Methodist Church.

Workshop Scheduled by Monrovia

The Monrovia Garden Club will hold an all-day meeting Monday in the basement of the Five Points Methodist Church. The first session is scheduled to begin at 10 a. m. The business meeting is scheduled at 11 a. m. and a covered dish dinner will be held at noon.

A workshop will start at 1:30 p. m.

Mrs. Chester Roberts of the Open Gate Garden Club will demonstrate home decorations of dried materials.

Mrs. Ned Long and Mrs. Ernest Sheets will be co-hostesses for the meeting.

Personals

Mrs. D. E. Rhoades and daughter Wendy Susan of Orville was a Pumpkin Show visitor of Mr. and Mrs. John Magill, 119 Seyfert Ave. Roger L. Magill and Miss Gerri Steel of Lawrenceburg, Ind. were also guests.

Devotions were in charge of Mrs. Jewell Hinton. In observance of the 90th anniversary of women's work in the church, Mrs. Hinton presented interesting facts of the organization. Past presidents of the local society were honored with a corsage. A planter was presented to Mrs. Ethel Marshall, who has belonged to the society the longest.

Mrs. Charlotte Hill, a guest from the Second Baptist Church, presented a vocal solo, "Only Believe".

Business meeting was in charge of Miss Weta Mae Leist, president.

Committee reports were given and minutes were read and approved.

Members were urged to attend the Fall Institute, December 1 at Lancaster Maple Street EUB Church.

Program was in charge of Leona and Lydia DeLong which consisted of several poems and contests.

Refreshments were served from a tea table centered with a decorated cake carrying out the birthday theme. Hostesses for the evening were Mrs. Betty Wolford, Mrs. Betty Waidelich, and Mrs. Maurice Bailey.

Dear Abby: Tell the Truth, Honey!

DEAR ABBY: I am a 14-year-old girl. A friend of mine from school asked me to keep a book for her overnight, so I took it home. (It was a popular book which a lot of people said was dirty.) I didn't have anything to do before supper, so I started to read a few pages. I heard my mother coming to call me for supper, so I threw the book under my mattress so she wouldn't get the wrong idea.

After supper some kids came over and I forgot all about the book until bedtime. When I went to get it, it was gone. I'm sure my mother found it when she turned down my bed, because the next morning she said, "I am stopping your allowance because if you spend your money on trash, you don't need any."

Abby, I'm afraid to ask my mother for the book. I know she will never believe how I happened to have it. Now I have to pay my girl friend for the book. (I told her I "lost" it.) What should I do now?

EVERYTHING HAPPENS TO ME
DEAR EVERYTHING: Less will happen to you if you stick to the truth. Tell your mother how you "happened" to have the book. Tell your girl friend how you "lost" it. And don't ever take home a book you're ashamed to be seen reading.

DEAR ABBY: Last Christmas my husband gave me a diamond. We went to the jewelry store and picked the stone out together and had them put it in a setting. When my husband brought the ring home, I was so disappointed. Abby, I don't think I got the same stone I picked out. I am just sick about it, but I let it go because I don't know what to do about it. How can a person protect himself against this sort of thing? The ring cost $1000. I think we were taken.

DISAPPOINTED
DEAR DISAPPOINTED: In selecting a jeweler, one should use the same standards he uses in selecting a doctor, lawyer, or anyone who "sells" a service. A reputation for integrity is your best guide. If you doubt that you got the diamond you paid for, have it appraised elsewhere. And if you have been "taken," your next call should be the Better Business Bureau. Jewelers who would cheat in this manner do not stay in business long.

DEAR ABBY: My boy friend and I are still in college and this is the third year the same problem has come up with my folks. The four of us go to all the football games in Clyde's car. Some games are out of town and we have to drive a couple of hundred miles. Not once has Clyde ever mentioned that my father should pay something toward the gas. When it comes to the tickets, my father gets them. Then he tells me afterwards how much Clyde owes him for his ticket and mine. I don't think it's right to ask Clyde for the money, so I pay it myself. My folks say it's nothing out of Clyde's pocket to let them ride along to the games as he's driving anyway. They're right, of course, but somehow it seems wrong. I'd like your opinion.

CLYDE'S GIRL
DEAR GIRL: True, it's nothing extra out of Clyde's pocket to let your parents ride along, but it does cost Clyde something to operate his car, which provides the transportation to these games. I think your father should take his wallet out of mothballs and "treat" Clyde to tickets occasionally to show his appreciation for the rides.

Dr. Hall To Speak At CCL Meeting

The Child Conservation League will meet 2 p. m. Tuesday at the home of Mrs. William Richards, Route 2. Members are invited to bring guests.

Dr. Nason Hall Jr., assistant professor of sociology at Ohio State University will speak on "Teenage Classroom Problems."

Five Points WCTU Is At Neff Home

The Five Points WCTU will meet 2 p. m. Wednesday in the home of Mrs. Lloyd Neff.

Mrs. Harry A. Dick is the assisting hostess. All members are urged to attend.

Mrs. Palmer To Host Mt. Pleasant WSCS

The Mt. Pleasant WSCS will meet 7:30 p. m. Tuesday in the home of Mrs. Frank Palmer, Route 2, Williamsport.

Mrs. Harry Carter will serve as co-hostess of the meeting.

The Past Chiefs Club, Pythian Sisters, Majors Temple 516, will meet 7:30 p. m. Wednesday in the home of Mrs. Allen Strawser, 228 Logan St.

Women's Republican Club Has Covered Dish Meeting

Pickaway County Republican Club women held a covered dish luncheon at the Grange and 4-H Building.

Chrysanthemum decorations were on all tables and many souvenirs from Africa were displayed on the speakers table.

Mrs. Donald H. Watt led in giving the salute to the American flag, after which Mrs. H. O. Caldwell asked all to join in singing, "Praise God From Whom All Blessings Flow." Prayer was given by Mrs. O. J. Towers.

Mrs. Caldwell opened the business session and presented Eddie Pritchard, Republican candidate for trustee of Harrison Township, who addressed the group. Mrs. B. T. Hedges read the secretary report in the absence of Mrs. J. B. Work, who had received an arm injury, due to a fall at the Pumpkin Show.

Mrs. Lawrence Liston gave the treasurer report for Mrs. W. F. Gillespie.

A detailed report regarding the recent Conference in Columbus, sent to the Club by Mrs. Katherine Kennedy Brown of Dayton, president of the Ohio Federation of Republican Clubs, was given by Mrs. Caldwell.

Resolutions of respect, written by Mrs. Donald H. Watt, Mrs. J. B. Work and Mrs. Lawrence Liston were ordered filed and sent to the families of Mrs. C. E. Wright and Mrs. Sterley Croman.

After her extended, recent trip to Africa, Mrs. Caldwell gave in detail, the many customs of its peoples, the great beauty of its countryside and the influence of Christian missionaries.

It was voted to hold the next meeting one week early, because of the Thanksgiving holiday. The covered dish luncheon will be held at the Grange and 4-H Club Building, Nov. 15, when Mrs. Caldwell will further discuss Africa and show pictures.

Five Points Social Club Slates Meet

The Five Points Methodist Social Hour Club will meet 7:03 p. m. Friday for their covered dish dinner and regular meeting.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Winfough are hostesses for the evening.

Ohio's Sugar Crop Heads For Refinery

FREMONT Ohio (AP) — The trucks are rolling in here with a sweet cargo that amounts to a $6 million industry in this area.

They roll up to the Fremont plant of the Northern Ohio Sugar Beet Co. with the 1965 harvest of sugar beets.

Sugar is an industry that covers seven counties, with 507 growers and 250 employees of the Fremont plant. Nearly all of the $6 million of the 1965 crop represents stays in this area.

The Fremont plant, which won an efficiency award of the Great Western Sugar Corp. last year, is expected to process its largest yield in history this year.

Company officials estimate the 1965 crop will be 225,000 tons of sugar beets, 35,000 tons more than the previous high of 1962.

According to previous averages, this means that more than $6 million will be brought into the area by the sugar beet industry. About half that money will go to growers.

The percentage a grower gets depends on quality of the beets — how much sugar they contain. Samples are taken of each load of beets as trucks come into the factory. These samples are analyzed for sugar content and growers are paid for the actual amount of sugar supplied.

Growers must harvest their own beets and transport them to the factory.

Beets are processed into three products — sugar, dried sugar beet pulp and sugar beet molasses.

The sugar is sold only in Northwest Ohio. Gordon Rudolph, manager of the Fremont plant, says the company tries to sell its product as close to the point of production as possible.

Sugar beet pulp is used for livestock feed, primarily by dairy farmers. It induces increased milk flow in dairy cows.

Dairy operators in the immediate area, however, have an abundance of other feed and do not use much of the pulp. Most of it marketed in Eastern Ohio, Pennsylvania and New York.

Sugar beet molasses is used in livestock feeding in pharmaceutical products. The molasses is sold through an outlet in Toledo.

The growers will get about 18 tons of beets per acre from the 12,185 acres harvested.

Processing employs 70 full-time and 180 part-time workers. The factory started processing Oct. 6 and, because of the expected record yield, will run about 120 days, about 10 more than normal.

A new sugar bill passed before Congress adjourned will give the company some marketing relief. A greater percentage of the sugar that is produced can be sold, under an increased marketing allotment.

Mexico City Girds To Battle Hoodlums
MEXICO CITY (AP) —Police have announced plans for a massive attack against this city's gangs of young hoodlums and added that "no mercy" will be shown to juvenile delinquents. Police say juvenile delinquency has grown so that one out of every 40 residents of this city is a criminal. Juvenile delinquents are divided into approximately 2,000 gangs operating in the capital, police said.

Challenge of Change

Diagnosis of Our Times Is 'Social Indigestion'

EDITOR'S NOTE: Among other things, the scientific age has produced a "social indigestion." Change has become a way of life and not all can adapt. Associated Press Science Writer Alton Blakeslee examines this age's disorder in the following ninth of a 10-part series on the scientific age.

By ALTON BLAKESLEE
AP Science Writer

One diagnosis of our troubled times is: "social indigestion." A revolution from science and technology has contributed greatly to bringing along rapid, frustrating and challenging changes and problems piling higher upon new problems.

Change is nothing new in human affairs, of course. But the quick PACE of change is new, and upsetting, many observers remark.

The only certainty seems to be that change now has become our way of life. Greater changes are likely yet to come, making the future ever more unpredictable.

A variety of comments measure our discontents: A city dweller: "Those nuts want to put a man on Mars, and I can't even get across town through traffic."

Father of a high school student: "George applied to three colleges, but hasn't heard, and I'm scared to death he won't get in."

A mother: "I get nightmares about everyone being blown up by H-bombs. Sometimes I wonder, what's the use of anything?"

Physicist: "I can't keep up with everything I'm supposed to know in my own specialty — much less what's going on in my own community."

A Negro: "Does the color of my skin make me a second-class citizen?"

Male high school teacher: "I may have to quit teaching to find a better-paying job so I can send my own youngsters to college."

A businessman: "Kids talk a lot today about their rights — I don't hear them mentioning responsibilities."

Minister: "There's so much shattering of old traditions and beliefs..."

A college student: "I'm joining the Peace Corps — I want to put my body where my ideals are."

Another college student: I am going out to get everything I can just for myself — like lots of other people do."

An engineer: "Many of us are being uprooted. But people need roots, and to know how to nourish them." q

Change has left a flotsam of fractured feelings, anxieties, worries in its wake — and also has stimulated more reaching for old and new dreams.

There's no easy anti-acid pill to take for the social indigestion. While it's acute, it's not a new thing — perhaps every generation has felt this is the worst of all possible worlds, and yet the best.

fortable, too," says Dr. Peter C. Goldmark, president of CBS laboratories.

"We are able to look and listen at vast distances, to travel faster than sound (and more dangerously) and our bathrooms are luxurious beyond anything the Romans had.

"The question is, have our basic instincts and our thinking processes improved with our plumbing? I'm afraid the answer is 'No.'"

Dr. John Gardner, new secretary of the Department of Health Education and Welfare, remarked in a book: "The society which scorns excellence in plumbing because plumbing is a humble activity and tolerates shoddiness in philosophy because it is an exalted activity will have neither good plumbing nor good philosophy. Neither its pipes nor its theories will hold water."

Institutions are beset by new or accentuated concerns also — the schools, churches, governments, unions, corporations.

The men and women who won in science are not exempt either.

As individuals, or their spokesmen, they write and talk about these concerns:

Is science being blamed unfairly as an evil force — partly, for example, because the atomic bomb was developed under patriotic duress of war?

Are scientists coming to be regarded as an elite and therefore dangerous group—are some scientists indeed behaving as snobs or seeking to influence decisions beyond their own qualifications? Is there too much unrealistic adulation of "science" as some magic wand somehow capable of solving all present and future dilemmas?

Is there too much "big" science — the space program or costly atom-smashing machines or observatories — versus support of important but less glamorous endeavors, or versus support of social sciences?

In this age of technology, says Vice Adm. Hyman Rickover (famed for development of the atomic submarine) there is danger in admiring the products of technology rather than looking upon it as "no more than a means to an end that man determines."

"Powerful forces are driving us toward a pattern of life in which technology, rather than man, will be central to the purpose of society," Adm. Rickover says. "How to make technology most useful to ourselves and our society, yet prevent it from controlling our lives — that is the problem."

If lots of people feel themselves boxed in, there also are many people thinking hard on ways to get us out of the many Chinese-puzzle boxes.

Ohio's Sugar Crop Heads For Refinery

FREMONT Ohio (AP) — The trucks are rolling in here with a sweet cargo that amounts to a $6 million industry in this area.

They roll up to the Fremont plant of the Northern Ohio Sugar Beet Co. with the 1965 harvest of sugar beets.

Sugar is an industry that covers seven counties, with 507 growers and 250 employees of the Fremont plant. Nearly all of the $6 million of the 1965 crop represents stays in this area.

The Fremont plant, which won an efficiency award of the Great Western Sugar Corp. last year, is expected to process its largest yield in history this year.

Company officials estimate the 1965 crop will be 225,000 tons of sugar beets, 35,000 tons more than the previous high of 1962.

According to previous averages, this means that more than $6 million will be brought into the area by the sugar beet industry. About half that money will go to growers.

The percentage a grower gets depends on quality of the beets — how much sugar they contain. Samples are taken of each load of beets as trucks come into the factory. These samples are analyzed for sugar content and growers are paid for the actual amount of sugar supplied.

Growers must harvest their own beets and transport them to the factory.

Beets are processed into three products — sugar, dried sugar beet pulp and sugar beet molasses.

The sugar is sold only in Northwest Ohio. Gordon Rudolph, manager of the Fremont plant, says the company tries to sell its product as close to the point of production as possible.

Sugar beet pulp is used for livestock feed, primarily by dairy farmers. It induces increased milk flow in dairy cows.

Dairy operators in the immediate area, however, have an abundance of other feed and do not use much of the pulp. Most of it marketed in Eastern Ohio, Pennsylvania and New York.

Sugar beet molasses is used in livestock feeding in pharmaceutical products. The molasses is sold through an outlet in Toledo.

The growers will get about 18 tons of beets per acre from the 12,185 acres harvested.

GI Makes God Promise, Proceeds To Keep It

DA NANG, South Viet Nam (AP) — Walt Hiskett made a promise to God, and he kept it.

Hiskett, a native of Chicago, was wounded in the Korean War during the battle of the Chosin Reservoir in November 1950. He asked God to spare his life, and promised to serve the Lord in any way he could.

Hiskett was 20 years old then and a Marine sergeant. Today, he is a Navy lieutenant serving with the Marine Corps as a chaplain in the same battalion he served with during the Korean War as a squad leader — the 2nd Battalion, 7th Marines.

Hiskett, 35, spent three years as a construction worker in Chicago to save enough money to finance him through Wittenberg University in Springfield, Ohio.

From Wittenberg, he went on to the Chicago Lutheran Seminary where he received a bachelor of divinity degree in May 1961. He served as assistant pastor of the Edgebrook Lutheran Church in the northwest section of Chicago until September 1962, when he came on active duty.

After serving as chaplain at the Naval Air Station, North Island, San Diego, Calif., and the U.S. Naval Training Center at San Diego, he volunteered for service in Viet Nam. He arrived in this country last July 7.

His wife, Marilyn, and two children, Gregory, 2, and David, 2½, an adopted child, reside in San Diego.

He lives in a tent in a valley about 15 miles southwest of Qui Nhon, and frequently goes up into the hills, where the Marines have their defensive perimeters, to visit the front-line men.

"In serving with the Marines, I feel it's some kind of a small token of repayment for the blessing that I received at the reservoir," he said.

"Our company was surrounded at Chosin Reservoir for six days. I got wounded on the first day. We thought the wounded would be evacuated. One helicopter came to evacuate us, but it was under sniper fire and had to take off before they could get any wounded to the chopper.

"On the third day, I was getting in bad shape with pain and I went back to the aid tent. That night the Chinese attacked again. We received word that the Chinese broke through the 3rd platoon and they were on their way toward the aid tent.

"At that time, the weapons platoon commander also had been wounded and was in the tent and said, 'When they come in here, just look them in the eye and show them you are Marines.' And then he said, 'All you men that are Catholic, you know your Rosary. Start saying it. The rest of you just start praying.' The first thing that came to my mind was a combination of the Lord's Prayer and the 23rd Psalm, 'The Lord is my shepherd, I shall not want.'

"I also made special petitions for my life. I asked God to save me and keep me from being killed and to help the Marines push back the enemy.

"On the sixth day, one of the companies broke through to us from the forward elements. The next day we moved down south to Hagaru where I was evacuated to the hospital in Yokusaka, Japan."

Hiskett said he feels serving with the Marines "has probably been the most rewarding ministry I've had since I've been ordained."

As for the power of prayer, Hiskett said:

"I believe in it very strongly. I believe prayer can have an effect on one's life and that God does listen to prayer and will answer our prayers if it's His will rather than ours. I feel God used this experience to call me into the ministry."

YOU won't know yourself!

Dressing up is always fun! Whether it's Hallowe'en, Mardi Gras, a Hawaiian luau or a masquerade ball, almost everyone of every age enjoys wearing a costume. It makes us feel "different" ... less restrained and more light-hearted. Perhaps it's a relief to leave our everyday self at home for a while. For many of us, that tired, worried, unhappy self is far from satisfactory but we seem to be stuck with it.

Yet consider this. The burden of self that we carry is unnecessary ... and we have a standing invitation to lay it down! One of the joys of following Jesus is that we must "leave self behind." There is no place in the Christian life for worry or woe, because the logical sequences of faith in God are contentment and serenity. Yes, the gloomiest pessimists become clear-visioned optimists when they are filled with the light that only God can give.

Samson

INTEMPERANCE INVITES DISASTER

Scripture—Judges 13:2-16:31.

By R. H. RAMSEY
SAMSON was next to the last of 12 judges who ruled Israel between the death of Joshua and the anointing of Saul. All, excepting Samson, were national leaders who were, by the grace of God, able to deliver the Israelites from some oppressing servitude to other nations. In the careers of most of them were remarkable military victories.

This is not so with Samson. He did not lead the nation, he won no military victories, his exploits brought no revival of religious or national spirit. What he did, he did on his own, without followers of permanent results. It would seem that Samson was a man without close friends and one to whom the nation did not look for deliverance.

Yet Samson was born to great ends, for God's blessing and guiding hand rested more surely upon Samson than on any of his contemporaries. "The angel of the Lord" appeared to his mother assuring her that the child she was about to bear would "begin to deliver Israel out of the hands of the Philistines."

Further, he was to be a Nazirite, one wholly dedicated to God; but his life, as he led it, seems the classic example of the devastating effect of intemperance and uncontrolled passions.

and doubly so for one who was under a Nazirite vow. Nonetheless, Samson insisted on marrying a Philistine woman, an act that involved him in no end of trouble for the rest of his life. At his marriage feast he proposed a riddle, wagering upon the Philistines answering it. His wife wheedled the answer from him, betrayed him, and he slaughtered 30 of their ranks. Samson's wife was given to another man; Samson retaliated by destroying the Philistines' fields; their revenge was to burn his wife and her father at the stake. This further infuriated Samson, who then went out and smote the Philistines with a great slaughter.

Escaping to the rock of Etam, he allowed the men of Judah to deliver him again to the Philistines and, once among them, slew a thousand of them with the jawbone of an ass.

Samson's final escapade was his affair with Delilah. Enamored, he became a slave of his passions, and acquired an unhealthy appetite for wine. The end of that usefulness for which God had designated him came when the drunken Samson, asleep in her lap, finally surrendered his devotion to God, relinquished his birthright as a deliverer, and was shorn of his strength and reduced to the status of an animal.

Samson did not lose his power just because his hair had been cut. God took the power away because Samson allowed Delilah to take away the symbol of both his power and life perfectly devoted to God.

The Philistines put out his eyes, bound him in fetters and threw him into prison. Later, when his hair had grown long again, they added to his degradation by forcing him to play the fool at a festival in honor of their God Dagon.

Led into the temple, Samson prayed to the Lord for strength to avenge himself. God answered his prayer. Samson leaned with all his might against the middle pillars of the temple and pushed them down. The collapse of the temple killed 3,000 Philistines, as well as Samson himself. Later, his brothers recovered his body and he was buried as a hero.

Samson had been born to God's service. But he succumbed to the importuning of passion and to the growth of intemperance, used his God-given powers for selfish satisfaction, and experienced ruin, becoming a mere sordid figure. Though he finally achieved revenge, it was not enough for him or his generation.

GOLDEN TEXT

"He that is slow to anger is better than the mighty; and he that ruleth his spirit than he that taketh a city."—Proverbs 16:32.

perance and uncontrolled passions.

Samson was born into a home of genuine piety, his birth announced by an angel from heaven. His mother was warned to abstain from strong drink and unclean foods during her pregnancy, for the child was to be a Nazirite from the womb. After his birth, she was further warned, his hair was never to be cut, and he was forbidden to drink wine, all factors in what is now called a Nazirite vow.

This abstemious life Samson was supposed to lead, plus the background afforded by a godly home, was conducive to the training and development of a virtuous leader, a man born to serve God and his people at any personal cost.

This child of such promise grew to be a mighty man of strength and valor, with the Spirit of the Lord working on his mind, will and body. Unfortunately, worldly powers and selfish desires began working on his moral nature at the same time, leading to the gradual decline and final ruin of such a blessing to his fellow Israelites.

It was contrary to Hebrew law for an Israelite to marry into a pagan, idolatrous family. Based on copies of the Old Testament, National Council of Churches of Christ

ELECT

COOKE METZGER TO WESTFALL DISTRICT SCHOOL BOARD

I am the father of four children and am very much interested in the best education possible for all the children of Westfall School District. I am a graduate of Williamsport High School and have been engaged in farming the last fourteen years. If elected I would devote time and effort to help maintain a good school system in Westfall School District. Therefore, I am asking your support at the Nov. 2 election.

Samson

INTEMPERANCE INVITES DISASTER

Scripture—Judges 15:2-16:31.

By R. H. RAMSEY
SAMSON was next to the last of 12 judges who ruled Israel between the death of Joshua and the anointing of Saul. All, excepting Samson, were national leaders who were, by the grace of God, able to deliver the Israelites from some oppressing servitude to other nations. In the careers of most of them were remarkable military victories.

This is not so with Samson. He did not lead the nation, he won no military victories, his exploits brought no revival of religious or national spirit. What he did, he did on his own, without followers of permanent results. It would seem that Samson was a man without close friends and one to whom the nation did not look for deliverance.

Yet Samson was born to great ends, for God's blessing and guiding hand rested more surely upon Samson than on any of his contemporaries. "The angel of the Lord" appeared to his mother assuring her that the child she was about to bear would "begin to deliver Israel out of the hands of the Philistines."

Further, he was to be a Nazirite, one wholly dedicated to God; but his life, as he led it, seems the classic example of the devastating effect of intemperance and uncontrolled passions.

Samson was born into a home of genuine piety, his birth announced by an angel from heaven. His mother was warned to abstain from strong drink and unclean foods during her pregnancy, for the child was to be a Nazirite from the womb. After his birth, she was further warned, his hair was never to be cut, and he was forbidden to drink wine, all factors in what is now called a Nazirite vow.

This abstemious life Samson was supposed to lead, plus the background afforded by a godly home, was conducive to the training and development of a virile leader, a man born to serve God and his people at any personal cost.

This child of such promise grew to be a mighty man of strength and valor, with the Spirit of the Lord working on his mind, will and body. Unfortunately, worldly powers and selfish desires began working on his moral nature at the same time, leading to the gradual decline and final ruin of this one who could have proved such a blessing to his fellow Israelites.

It was contrary to Hebrew law for an Israelite to marry into a pagan, idolatrous family. Based on copyrighted outlines produced by the Divisions of Christian Education in the U.S.A., and used by permission.

and doubly so for one who was under a Nazirite vow. Nonetheless, Samson insisted on marrying a Philistine woman, an act that involved him in no end of trouble for the rest of his life. At his marriage feast he proposed a riddle, wagering upon the Philistines answering it. His wife wheedled the answer from him, betrayed him, and he slaughtered 30 of their ranks.

Samson's wife was given to another man; Samson retaliated by destroying the Philistines' fields; their revenge was to burn his wife and her father at the stake. This further infuriated Samson, who then went out and smote the Philistines with a great slaughter.

Escaping to the rock of Etam, he allowed the men of Judah to deliver him again to the Philistines and, once among them, slew a thousand of them with the jawbone of an ass.

Samson's final escapade was his affair with Delilah. Enamored, he became a slave of his passions, and acquired an unhealthy appetite for wine. The end of that usefulness for which God had designated him came when the drunken Samson, asleep in her lap, finally surrendered his devotion to God, relinquished his birthright as a deliverer, and was shorn of his strength and reduced to the status of an animal.

Samson did not lose his power just because his hair had been cut. God took the power away because Samson allowed Delilah to take away the symbol of both his power and life perfectly devoted to God.

The Philistines put out his eyes, bound him in fetters and threw him into prison. Later, when his hair had grown long again, they added to his degradation by forcing him to play the fool at a festival in honor of their God Dagon.

Led into the temple, Samson prayed to the Lord for strength to avenge himself. God answered his prayer. Samson leaned with all his might against the middle pillars of the temple and pushed them down. The collapse of the temple killed 3,000 Philistines, as well as Samson himself. Later, his brothers recovered his body and he was buried as a hero.

Samson had been born to God's service. But he succumbed to the importuning of passion and to the growth of intemperance, used his God-given powers for selfish satisfaction, and experienced ruin, becoming a mere sordid figure. Though he finally achieved revenge, it was not enough for him or his generation.

Sen. Young Opposes School Aid Tax Issue
CLEVELAND (AP) — Sen. Stephen M. Young, D-Ohio, has come out against State Issue 1 — a plan to increase financial aid to public schools by increasing the state sales tax.

Young charged Thursday that "this is a monstrous fraud proposed by Gov. James A. Rhodes under a disguise of increasing teachers' salaries and aiding culturally disadvantaged pupils."

Nimrod Fires One Shot, Bags Pair of Deer
STRONG, Maine (AP) — Herbert Neil said he was walking along a woods road when what appeared to be one deer stepped across the road. He fired one shot from his rifle. When he reached the animal, Neil said, he found a buck and a doe. Each was shot through the neck.

It's Just Empty Arms Syndrome

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK (AP)—Women get more sympathy in life than men.

This is because they have learned the truth of the saying, "It pays to advertise."

As Henry David Thoreau pointed out early in the last century, most men "lead lives of quiet desperation." This is why their plight gets little general pity.

Women, on the other hand, tend to lead lives of noisy desperation. Thus they lay claim to more sympathy—and they get it.

When a woman suffers a loss in life, she announces it and complains aloud about it to high heaven. She is immediately surrounded by solacing friends and neighbors who tell her she must calm down, take it easy, drink some tea, and have something to eat.

When a man suffers a loss, he usually must face his misery alone. He is supposed to take it in Spartan silence, and even his oldest male friends are embarrassed to mention it. He must suffer by himself, and pull himself together with little outside help.

These thoughts are stirred by a rash of articles in women's magazines about what one called "the empty arms syndrome."

This describes the predicament of many a middle-aged mother after her children are grown and flown. She misses her nestlings, and life seems empty and purposeless without them.

For years she slaved to please and placate them, to admonish and advise them. Now she feels useless, barren and unneeded. "What is there left for me to do?" she asks aloud in her grief.

A thousand psychiatrists rush to her rescue. They pat her on the back, hold a handkerchief to her nose so that she can honk away, tell her she is still vastly important to the world, and made even more beautiful by her Indian summer loss. Well, well, well.

But what about dear old Dad? Isn't he a victim of "the empty arms syndrome," too? Doesn't he, after the nestlings have winged away, feel depressed at coming home to a house that no longer echoes with the music of his children? Doesn't he feel lonely, lost, and somewhat vague about the importance of his future?

There is only one young echo-maker in our house. She is only 12 now, but I fearfully foresee the day when she will grow up and fly away with a husband of her very own. And my arms will be as empty as her mother's.

On that distant wedding hour my wife will break into tears, and be surrounded at once with consoling guests who will tell her things like, "Look at it this way, Frances, you haven't really lost a daughter—you gained a son."

But what I will do, as soon as the ceremony is over, is to fling myself on the floor and break into loud sobs. And when a curious bystander finally notices me, and asks, "What in the devil are you doing down there?" I will look up and reply:

"Acting like a father really feels. Don't pay any attention to silly old me. It's just my empty arms syndrome."

The World Today

WASHINGTON (AP)—Age and changing generations in Red China are the best hope for the rest of the world that the Chinese eventually will quiet down and get off their endless belligerency kick. At best it's a hope.

It could be easily nullified if, once the Chinese have built up their own nuclear arsenal, they develop a new and fantastic sense of power, daring and impregnability.

But at least there was this same kind of hope for Russia once, and it was fulfilled to some degree.

In the Kremlin's most hostile period, the 1940s, the United States began its containment policy to hem in Russia until time could work changes in the Communist world and push it in a more peaceful direction.

U.S. officials pointed out Thursday to some 800 editors and broadcasters attending a foreign policy briefing in the State Department that Red China has suffered setbacks from Indonesia to Africa.

This seemed inevitable when it is remembered that ever since they took over the mainland in 1949 the Red Chinese have preached revolution not only to their neighbors but to people too far away to get substantial Chinese help.

And Red China's break with Russia, worse now than ever in its significance and its vituperations, injured the world Communist movement.

The U.S. officials talked of diminishing Red Chinese influence in Africa as the leaders of the new African nations realize Peking's revolutionary doctrine could be used against them.

In the abortive Indonesian revolution Red China and pro-Peking Communists suffered a loss. And, the officials said, Red China had second thoughts when the United States cautioned it against interference in the India-Pakistan cease-fire.

For 16 years the Red Chinese have used the big mouth technique, talking and urging revolution everywhere while very carefully avoiding direct conflict with Russia and — except for China's role in the Korean conflict — the United States. This is realistic and understandable.

At this time the United States and Russia have the overwhelming nuclear power, enough to wreck Red China and its revolution, while the Chinese are still in the process of achieving similar nuclear power of their own.

They're at a disadvantage now and, while hostile, they've played cute. With the new weapons they almost certainly will be in a position to take more risks while the United States and Russia may be more reluctant to do so.

Nevertheless, hovering over this ominous prospect, is the hope of change: change in the leadership and therefore in the thinking of red Chinese leaders.

The Lenins, Stalins and Trotskys were not only the children of the Russian revolution but its creators, just as Mao Tze-tung and those close around him have been in China since the 1920s.

The Lenin men were the fanatics, the revolutionaries who thought in terms of any sacri-

Widow, Son of Viet Nam Hero To Be Cited

CLEVELAND (AP)—John Carroll University plans to honor today the widow and infant son of its first Reserve Officer Training Corps graduate to die in Viet Nam.

Mrs. Madia DaDante, widow of 1st Lt. Leonard DaDante, will receive the Air Medal and Purple Heart won by her husband. Her son, Leonard Michael, born a week after his father's funeral, will be awarded a four-year, tuition-free scholarship to John Carroll.

The 1963 Carroll graduate was killed in Viet Nam Sept. 9.

for the sake of the revolution. This spirit was kept alive so long as Stalin lived, and he lived until 1953.

But by then, while some of his colleagues of the early days had died, he had murdered others and many of those he had come to depend upon were of a younger generation.

While they were true Bolshevik disciples they did not, and could not because they were of a slightly different time, have the same obsessions. They had to be concerned with problems of management and internal development.

As Russia grew in affluence, both in possessions and responsibilities, the new leadership reluctant to lose what had been gained.

Thus in time the Kremlin after Stalin was naturally more leadership became more and more the big proprietors, and that has a sobering, conservative influence. It's enough to cool some of the revolutionary ardor in any group.

Perhaps this is what Red China is headed for. Its leadership now is made up of old men who will have to yield the reins before too long. The problems within China are enormous. Mao Tze-tung's heirs, lacking his revolutionary obsessions, may become more concerned with domestic expansion than with Communist expansion.

Journalism Students Introduced

By BRENDA DOWNING and SUSAN THOMPSON

Who's that mischievous-looking girl forever getting into trouble in lab class? It's Barbara MacKenzie, 17. She lives with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John MacKenzie, at 506 Forest Drive. "Barb" is a senior and enrolled in the classical course. Her favorite subject is chemistry lab. Barbara is an active member of Senior GAA, Lutheran Church, and 4-H. Among her many likes are playing pool, motorboating, knitting, conversation in lab class, and David. Barbara's dislikes include liver, studying, getting up in the morning, and government tests. After graduation Barb plans to attend Capital University and major in social science.

Pat McFarland, 15, resides with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Donald McFarland at 410 S. Washington St. Pat is enrolled in the commercial course and her favorite subject is journalism. She attends the Methodist Church and is a member of youth fellowship. Her hobbies are swimming, water skiing, boys, sewing, talking on the phone, and playing tennis. Pat's dislikes are English, red hair, and homework.

After graduation she plans to attend CBU.

She is Joyce Quincel, daughter of Mrs. Robert Bartholomew, 456 Stella Ave. Enrolled in General course, she is corresponding secretary in the Senior SOS Club, a member of Senior GAA, and president of Canteen Council.

She has loads of friends, no collections, blond hair, has been to Florida, has one sister married, one sister at home named Kim and no definite plans after graduation.

She likes watermelon, volleyball, lavender, weekends, to sign annuals, summer, Fridays, dill pickles, chewing gum, new clothes.

She dislikes tomatoes, bright pink, rain, snow, strawberry ice cream, table tennis, baby-sitting, boys who lie and rice.

She attends St. Joseph's Church.

By BRENDA DOWNING

She is Nancy Peck and resides with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Peck at 140 Hillcrest Drive and is enrolled in the General course. She is a member of Junior GAA.

She has: been to Virginia Beach; a wonderful mother; no collections; ten sweaters; two hobbies, sketching and tennis; two married sisters; one brother who is a junior.

She likes: football games; Pumpkin Show; french fries; white boots; to talk on the telephone; to go to Europe; redecorating; pizza; long hair; to go shopping; volleyball; journalism; Spanish.

She dislikes: to wear boots in the winter; broccoli; blouses; alarm clocks; pork chops; Reynolds wrap; Volkswagens.

Ambition: to take a tour of England after graduation.

She attends: the Methodist Church.

All County Sports Day Is Tomorrow

By LINDA RHYMER

Senior GAA is sponsoring an all county Sports Day this Saturday, in the CHS gymnasium with Circleville, Westfall, and Teays Valley.

It will start at 9 a. m. and continue until 3 p. m. All girls are to bring sack lunches, with soft drinks furnished by CHS.

Games to be played in the morning and CHS girls participating in them are as follows: basketball; Marsha Brobst, Mary Ward, Marcia Brehmer, Susan Horst, Gloria Schlegler, Teresa Connally, Barb MacKenzie, Eleanor Rush, Lin Cook, Sandy White, and Mary Gillian. Susie Sowers, Linda Calvert, Mary Gillian, Joyce Quincel, and Leanna Brevard will participate in table tennis.

Sandy Crabtree and Lynn Kifer will play shuffleboard. During the afternoon, the following girls will play volleyball: Sandy White, Joyce Quincel, Saly Whaley, Mary Mader, Kay McDonald, Carol Spangler, Lin Cook, Vicki Bray, and Barb MacKenzie. Those participating in baseball will be Marsha Brobst, Susan Horst, Susie Sowers, Linda Calvert, Judy Moats, Lynn Hughes, Lynn Kifer, Bev Boltenhouse, Eleanor Rush, and Mary Ward. Badminton will be played by Shirley Thomas, Jeanne West, Linda Lewis, Alice Isaac, Charlene Flaker, LeAnna Brevard, and Gloria Schlegler.

The Squeal of Tires

By KAREN HOSLER

A loud sound is heard — the squeal of tires, the burning of rubber. Another 12 feet of rubber is left burning on Court Street (or most any other street in town). If one could collect all this rubber, he soon could start a tire shop!

A boy must think he has to "lay a patch of rubber" or all but tear out his transmission to make an impression on a group of girls walking down the street. He leaves one all right — one that tells these girls that he is not the kind of boy they would like to date!

What sort of impression is this driving leaving on the older generation? What do they think? The humiliating thing about it is that they blame all teenagers for the fault of a few.

Why do boys do it? Psychologists might say that these boys have an inferiority complex, and must make themselves obvious. Do you?

Boys, for you whole generation's sake, please drive with better sense! Nothing is more frustrating for many girls than to have boys soar by, discarding more rubber than they can afford.

Teacher of the Week

By TAMALA WILKINS

What makes French and history pleasant? Why, it's Mrs. William F. Milam, the new teacher of the week. Mrs. Milam comes from Canton, Ohio, where she was graduated from Canton-McKinley High.

After earning her BS degree in education at OSU, she taught last year at Hastings Junior High in Arlington.

Mrs. Milam's likes include Doberman Pinchers, Ferraris and Senator Dirksen. When asked about her dislikes she said Schrauser, Cadillacs and from a political view, Robert Kennedy.

"A student who is not asked to do what he cannot do will not do what he can do," a quote by J. S. Mill in the philosophy that Mrs. Milam stresses.

When asked what she thinks about CHS students and teachers she replied, "So far — very nice."

It's a Strange Custom

By GREG GRIFFITH

Dear Father,

I just had to write to tell you of another American custom I've discovered. We have absolutely nothing like it in England. My friends kept telling me to lay in a supply of candies and sweets before Oct. 31, arrived, or else I would suffer the consequences. Of course, I took no heed to these warnings and dismissed it all as silly superstition.

Oct. 31 arrived, and absolutely nothing happened the whole day. In fact, it was such an ordinary day that I was going to retire early but before I had done so, someone started to rap on my door. I, of course, went to investigate and when I opened the door I was greeted by four or five little apparitions straight from "Grimm's Fairytales."

The little monsters kept shouting something at me and pointing at various bags that they carried. I recovered my senses and slammed the door. Soon afterwards I ventured a look out the window and was utterly agape at the sight I saw. The whole neighborhood was covered with roving bands of little urchins of the type that appeared at my doorsteps. It seemed to me that as soon as they rang a doorbell, the occupants appeared and tossed something into their bags. I soon realized that these miniature ghouls and ghosts were actually only children trying to "sucker" my good neighbors out of their hard-earned money.

So, the next group of panhandlers that arrived at my door received nothing but a stern and verbose lecture on the virtues of working for sweets and candy instead of taking it from my shamefully glib neighbors, who were deceived only by the cute costumes worn by the little pirates. The youngsters obviously felt very uncomfortable during my lengthy talk, and when I had finished they shuffled away muttering threats of dark vengeance and black deeds.

I took these angry murmurings as being only shallow threats and went to bed with a clear mind. When I awoke the coming morning, I found that the morning sun was finding difficulty coming through my window, mainly because there was about a quarter inch of soap on it.

Upon later examination, it was found that every window in the house had the soapy signature of neighborhood children. When I finally found a window that I could see through, I was shocked to find that the remarkable American soil had grown rolls and rolls of bathroom tissue all over my lawn and had even festooned the paper up and down my trees and shrubs.

As I am writing this letter, most of the soap has been washed off, but my trees still look like they belong in anywhere but on a lawn. I have conceived defeat and will pay the sweet tribute to its grisly collectors next year.

Mark my words, Father, never come to America when boys and girls become ghosts and ghouls, unless you want to pay their terrible tribute on the night of Halloween.

By KATHY EDGINGTON and JILL ROBERTSON

Mr. Joe Jenkins, local gasoline retailer, spoke to the CHS automotive class last Monday. Mr. Jenkins spoke concerning fuels and lubricants. He explained the difference in blends, regular and premium fuels and ratings.

The class has studied about volatility, detonation, fuel ignition and fuel additives which attempt to correct problems relating to fuel structure.

Mr. Jenkins spoke of oil ratings and why they are important. He also told the class about the problems encountered in the retail oil business.

The class has covered various kinds of lubricating systems employed in internal combustion four - cycle and two - cycle engines. Instruction includes various additives, regular and detergent oils, inhibitors, oil consumption causes, and other factors related to the vital necessity of good products and regular maintenance. The interesting presentation brought realistic situations into the classroom.

Last Friday's gridiron battle between the Tigers of Circleville and the Hillsboro Indians ended in a 6-6 tie. Neither team could pull itself together on the muddy field at Hillsboro.

The only Hillsboro touchdown came after a 68 yard drive in the third quarter. This was started by a fumble recovered by Hillsboro's Bob Hattie.

The Tigers made their lone touchdown with nine minutes remaining in the first quarter. Hodge Dade raced 20 yards on a pass from quarterback Danny Gibbs.

Coach Starr makes the comment that it was a good defensive game. Howard Fletcher, Hodge Dade and Steve Dade, and Tim Stonerock all played well.

Tonight Circleville is host to Greenfield McClain, who currently has not won a game. This will be the final league game for Circleville.

Be watching for a special report from Coach Starr on this year's football, coming up in a future issue.

DECA Club At Meeting

By DANA BASS

DECA Club students traveled to OSU on Oct. 19 for a regional meeting. All of the clubs in the South Eastern region were represented.

First thing on the agenda was the campaign speeches by nominees for regional offices. After this members adjourned to the East and West hall of the Student Union. Here they elected the officers and lunch was served.

After lunch it was announced that John Stacy, of Whitehall, was elected as president of the regional DECA Club.

CHS delegation ended with a tour of the campus led by Mr. Barrett, club adviser.

The Hi-Y Club of CHS will hold a Halloween Party this Saturday at 8:30 p. m. in the home of Bruce Barnes, 578 E. Main St. Members are encouraged to bring dates.

This Sunday afternoon the Key Club will wash all downtown windows soaped on Halloween.

Congratulations to the Cross Country team for their victories.

During a recent Science Club biological field trip to Blisswood by Darby Creek, Donna Kilian found a plant which Mr. Bartley, their guide, described as an equisetum variegatum or commonly called horsetail. This particular plant has only been found once before in Ohio, in Ashtabula County.

Blisswood has prairie conditions so that horsetail can grow. This particular species of equisetum is a small plant and the larger species have perished through the years.

Very little is known about the fossils of the earlier forms of Sphenopsida compared to what is known about the smaller plants. The word Sphenopsida deals with horsetail and the extinct related forms.

6-Year Ohio Spending Plan Is Unveiled

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A comprehensive plan outlining the expenditure of more than a billion dollars in capital improvements over the next six years has been announced by Ohio Finance Director Richard L. Krabach.

The plan is designed to maintain strict control over all state construction projects through 1971. Krabach said all state departments have been instructed to issue monthly progress reports on each project.

The program outlines expenditure of $833 million in state, federal and local funds through 1967, with another $200 million expected in 1968 and 1969.

Of the total, $540 million is in bond issue money, $243.5 million in federal and local funds, $29 million from highway funds and $21 million from temporary funds.

Capital improvements for higher education is set at $458.6 million; natural resources projects, $141.5 million; public schools, $125.6 million; state buildings, $86.8 million; state highway safety, $21 million.

The plan calls for expenditure of $115.9 million on projects at Ohio State University during the period.

Expenditures scheduled for other colleges and universities: Ohio University, $47.9 million; Kent State, $46.1 million; Cleveland State, $44.7 million; Bowling Green, $32.6 million; Miami $30.1 million; Cuyahoga Community College, $26.8 million; University of Cincinnati, $25.5 million; University of Akron, $14.5 million; University of Toledo, $13.7 million; Wright Brothers University, Dayton, $13 million, and Toledo State College of Medicine, $7.5 million.

Refreshments prepared by Home Economics Department will be served in the social rooms after the last session.

dance after the game this Friday, Oct. 29 in the school social room. Featured at the dance will be the "Emeralds."

Tuesday night Key Club held its annual induction of new members at the EUB Church. They are Dana Bass, Brock Bell, Mark Downing, Tom Ebenhack, Pat Frazier, Danny Gibbs, Steve Gilmore, Phil Hines, Mike Hulse, Mark Krieger, Steve McGinnis, Larry Payne, Bruce Pontius, and Keith Smith. Back-to-School Night Is Slated

By BRENDA DOWNING

Circleville High School will hold its Back-to-School night Monday.

It will begin at 7:30 with a general assembly in the auditorium. At this time drop-out rates, remedial courses, and the five diploma areas will be discussed.

Four classroom sessions will be conducted, each lasting 20 minutes. The teachers will be in the classroom to give a summary of that particular subject.

National Honor Society students will serve as guides, helping the parents from one class to another.

Refreshments prepared by Home Economics Department will be served in the social rooms after the last session.

Jury Frees Columbusite In Slaying

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Billie Eugene Koch, accused of killing three persons, was acquitted by a Franklin County Common Pleas Court jury early today.

The jury of nine women and three men found the 38-year-old Koch innocent of the July 2 murders of Mrs. Ena Malfie, 42, her daughter Tammy, 11, and her brother, Robert Herron, 43. All were shot to death in their home here.

The state contended that Koch killed the three during the early morning hours and then drove to Covington, Ky., later the same day.

Koch was arrested in Covington after the sheriff's office here received a call from Jack Heise. Heise said Koch told him in Covington about the killings.

Defense attorney James C. Britt told the jury there was a stronger case against Heise than against the defendant and that the prosecution's case was based wholly on circumstantial evidence.

The Squeal of Tires

By KAREN HOSLER

A loud sound is heard — the squeal of tires, the burning of rubber. Another 12 feet of rubber is left burning on Court Street (or most any other street in town). If one could collect all this rubber, he soon could start a tire shop!

A boy must think he has to "lay a patch of rubber" or all but tear out his transmission to make an impression on a group of girls walking down the street. He leaves one all right — one that tells these girls that he is not the kind of boy they would like to date!

What sort of impression is this driving leaving on the older generation? What do they think? The humiliating thing about it is that they blame all teenagers for the fault of a few.

Why do boys do it? Psychologists might say that these boys have an inferiority complex, and must make themselves obvious. Do you?

Boys, for you whole generation's sake, please drive with better sense! Nothing is more frustrating for many girls than to have boys soar by, discarding more rubber than they can afford.

Teacher of the Week

By TAMALA WILKINS

What makes French and history pleasant? Why, it's Mrs. William F. Milam, the new teacher of the week. Mrs. Milam comes from Canton, Ohio, where she was graduated from Canton-McKinley High.

After earning her BS degree in education at OSU, she taught last year at Hastings Junior High in Arlington.

Mrs. Milam's likes include Doberman Pinchers, Ferraris and Senator Dirksen. When asked about her dislikes she said Schrauser, Cadillacs and from a political view, Robert Kennedy.

"A student who is not asked to do what he cannot do will not do what he can do," a quote by J. S. Mill in the philosophy that Mrs. Milam stresses.

Williamsport Solons Plan Water System

The village Council of Williamsport has taken steps to develop an adequate water supply system for its residents.

The council has authorized the issuance of bonds totaling $71,000 to finance the project, has authorized the purchase of two tracts of land along Deer Creek from the Veterans of Foreign Wars, and has advertised for sealed bids for construction of the water system.

The bids are to be opened Nov. 10.

One tract of land contains 22.85 acres and the other being lots 17, 18, 19 of the B. B. Yates Addition in the same area.

The construction of the project has been divided into three prime contracts.

The first contract calls for the well pumps, the second for the general construction, consisting of water line construction, two well houses, a control building, underground power lines and electrical hook up, sewer lines and restoration of the present well field.

The third contract calls for the installation of 250 water meters.

The action by the Williamsport Council comes after a lengthy study. Arthur G. Wyatt of Canal Winchester, a consulting engineer, assisted with the study.

Richard Penn, who serves the village as city solicitor handled the legal work involved.

The Derby WSCS is planning its annual Turkey Dinner which will be held at the Derby Church Nov. 6 from 4:30 to 7:30 p. m.

CWO Tony Phillips, son of Mr. and Mrs. Everett Phillips, spent two weeks here visiting his parents. He will be stationed in Paris, France.

Visitors at the Phillips home were Tom and Ursul Baldwin of Marysville, Mrs. Maxine Caldwell and daughters Ruth and Wanda, and Gerald Wright, all of Williamsport.

On Saturday CWO Phillips' sister, Mrs. Maxine Caldwell, and daughters hosted a Turkey dinner for him. Guests were Mr. and Mrs. Boyd Mettler of Dayton and Mr. and Mrs. Everett Phillips.

Eldon Ridgway was taken to Madison County Hospital with pneumonia. His condition is reported improved.

Mr. and Mrs. Ned Yoakum and daughter Angela returned recently from a two week vacation trip through the southern United States. They visited relatives in the Carolinas, Tennessee and Baton Rouge, La., where they saw results of the recent hurricane. They visited Florida, and enjoyed most the beautiful scenery around Jacksonville.

On Friday and Saturday Edson Meyers, Donald, and Edson Meyers Jr. took a trip to historical spots in southern Ohio and Wheeling, W. Va.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Downs are parents of a daughter born Oct. 18 in Madison County Hospital.

Mrs. Elsie Smith, Miss Nancy Smith, Donald Smith, and the Edson Meyers family visited "Adena" at Chillicothe, and the Ross County Historical Museum.

On the birthday list are Mrs. Mildred Mouser, October 29, and Barbara Jones and Nancy Dinges, Oct. 30.

Letters To The Editor

Dear Editor:

Many people would not think of doing without hospitalization insurance. Yet I wonder if many people understand that such insurance may be of little value unless we are able to keep our local hospital.

I shall use an experience with illness in my own family, which I'm sure has been repeated many times in other cases.

My husband was taken suddenly ill just before Christmas last year. On Jan. 4, 1965, he had surgery for a brain tumor at a Columbus hospital. At that time I was informed that he had only a few months to live.

However, after 12 days in the hospital the surgeon who had operated asked me to move him from the hospital. His place was needed for a patient who needed surgery. My husband was confined to his bed, required heavy sedation, and had many problems which required skilled nursing.

Living Costs Bounce Back To Top Peak

WASHINGTON (AP)—Living costs bounced back up last month to equal a record high, largely because of increased prices for housing, clothing and shoes, the Labor Department said Thursday.

The government's consumer price index rose two-tenths of 1 per cent in September, wiping out a decline of the same amount in July. The shift brought the index to 110.2 per cent of the 1957-59 base period.

This means that in September it cost $11.02 to purchase typical consumer items costing $10 in 1957-59.

Supermarket food prices dropped six-tenths of one per cent, although the cost of meat, poultry and fish remained at high levels and dairy products edged up three-tenths of one per cent. There was a big drop in fresh fruits and vegetables — 6.1 per cent.

The biggest decline was in potato prices, which fell 32 per cent.

The report of an over-all decline in supermarket prices reversed an indication Wednesday, on the basis of less complete reports, that those prices had been edging up.

Restaurant meals increased six-tenths of one per cent, largely because of the continued high meat prices which the Bureau of Labor Statistics said were due to short supplies.

Red Chinese Get Warning From U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States privately warned Red China to stay out of the India-Pakistan conflict during a critical phase of that crisis, U.S. officials said Thursday.

The American warning may have had a salutary effect on Peking, the officials said. They noted that the Communist Chinese, after serving an apparent ultimatum on India, declared the Indians had dismantled alleged fortifications on Chinese territory.

The diplomatic means of the U.S. warning to the Chinese was not disclosed. It was understood that Washington made its position known at the Sept. 15 meeting between the U.S. and Red Chinese ambassadors at Warsaw. The Warsaw ambassadorial conferences are a regular point of U.S.-Communist Chinese contact.

The United States and Russia both were pressing for an India-Pakistan cease-fire under United Nations auspices. A cease-fire was finally achieved despite Peking's spoiler attempt.

Circleville, I was able to get him admitted to Berger Hospital on Jan. 18, 1965. There he had the services of a doctor and competent nurses, so that his suffering was kept at a minimum.

Until the time of this experience I thought we were pretty safe so far as hospital care was concerned so long as we kept our hospitalization insurance paid up. It was quite a shock to find that after paying for years the premiums on a very excellent policy, there was no room in the large city hospital for benefits therefrom.

Circleville is a prosperous and growing city. We would be losing something very necessary to our safety and well-being if we ever lost our hospital.

Compared with the cost of sickness and accident insurance hospital levy is very small. Yet it is important to remember that we must have hospital room when we need hospital care.

To the Editor:

One of the most difficult areas of a hospital to operate to the satisfaction of everyone is an Emergency Room. Those of us that work in such an area know this better than anyone else. I, as the supervisor of this department at Berger Hospital, would like to explain the value of this service to the people of Pickaway County.

Berger Hospital is a small hospital but a very fine one. As small hospitals go, we cannot have every service available.

Some patients require specialists such as neurosurgeons for head injuries or a urologist for kidney ailments. The medical staff at Berger is a very competent group of doctors but is not specifically trained in all these fields. Therefore, if further treatment is necessary that our staff men feel needs a specialist, the patient is given emergency care and transferred to a doctor that has been trained to treat that illness or injury.

Emergency Room patients are treated here by the medical staff of the hospital, the family physician. He may not be immediately available. The doctor may be in the operating room or delivering a baby. But if the patient needs instant care there is a doctor on call for such emergencies.

Since our doctors all have private practices they are unable to spend their entire 24 hour call duty in the hospital. And with the financial situation at present it is impossible to have a resident physician on our staff.

The department is staffed 24 hours a day by nurses who are capable of giving emergency care until a doctor arrives. If the proposed operating levy for the hospital does not pass and services are forced to be curtailed, the residents of this county may not have any emergency room available except in Columbus or Chillicothe.

If you would cut your finger and be bleeding badly, would you have time to drive 25 miles for emergency service?

Williamsport Solons Plan Water System

The village Council of Williamsport has taken steps to develop an adequate water supply system for its residents.

The council has authorized the issuance of bonds totaling $71,000 to finance the project, has authorized the purchase of two tracts of land along Deer Creek from the Veterans of Foreign Wars, and has advertised for sealed bids for construction of the water system.

The bids are to be opened Nov. 10.

One tract of land contains 22.85 acres and the other being lots 17, 18, 19 of the B. B. Yates Addition in the same area.

The construction of the project has been divided into three prime contracts.

The first contract calls for the well pumps, the second for the general construction, consisting of water line construction, two well houses, a control building, underground power lines and electrical hook up, sewer lines and restoration of the present well field.

The third contract calls for the installation of 250 water meters.

The action by the Williamsport Council comes after a lengthy study. Arthur G. Wyatt of Canal Winchester, a consulting engineer, assisted with the study.

Richard Penn, who serves the village as city solicitor handled the legal work involved.

AP Guesspert Says Bears To Scare Packers

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — The unbeaten Green Bay Packers come knocking on Papa Bear's door Sunday and they may get a pumpkin pie in the face.

Gale Sayers has made the Chicago Bears a real threat since he took over in the second half of the first Packer-Bear game four weeks ago.

The Packer-Bear renewal of one of pro football's most bitter feuds is the big game on a full program of seven National Football League and four American Football League contests.

It looks like the roughest week yet for a pro picker who just barely escaped with his hide, 6-5, last week. The season totals are 31-11 in the NFL, 14-6-3 in the AFL and 45-17-3 over-all.

Let's stab again: All games Sunday.

NFL
Baltimore 28, San Francisco 24—Colts are favored but this could get us off on the wrong foot. Baltimore just did win 27-24 Oct. 3 at home when Dave Parks caught nine passes for 221 yards and three 49er TDs.

Green Bay 27, Chicago 21—Looks like the spot for an upset win by the Bears but don't sell Vince Lombardi short. The Packers have been doing it with mirrors lately while the Bears have been the scourge of the league with Sayers running wild. Look for Packer defense to clamp down on Sayers and give Rudy Bukich the big rush.

St. Louis 31, New York 14—Charley Johnson will be a doubtful factor up to the game time and the Giants always give him trouble. But the Cards simply can't afford to lose another and figure to be keyed up after defeat by Redskins.

Cleveland 31, Minnesota 28—This one is enough to scare a ghost. Fran Tarkenton put on his best performance at San Francisco, passing for over 400 yards but the Vikings gave up a bushel of points while winning 42-41.

Dallas 24, Pittsburgh 17—Defense does it again. Neither Cowboys or Steelers show much on offense. Craig Morton probably will get call again over Don Meredith and Mike Nixon is going all the way with Bill Nelson. Return of Bob Hayes helps Dallas. Steelers make too many mistakes.

Detroit 17, Los Angeles 14—Rams are favored but Lions beat them 20-0 in opener and never let Swede Sware's men inside the 43. The Swede blew his top about the officiating in Baltimore last week and the Rams will be keyed to take it out on the visitors.

Washington 17, Philadelphia 14—Sonny Jurgensen had a hot hand against St. Louis last week and Charley Taylor ran like his old self for the first time. Return of Lonnie Sanders helps 'Skins secondary.

AFL
Denver 21, New York 17—Broncos have stronger offense with Cookie Gilchrist back in stride. Jets' attack still sputtering while Weeb Ewbank experiments with Mike Taliaferro at quarterback and hopes his receivers will hang on to the passes for a change. Jets' best scorer recently has been field goal kicker Jim Turner. Denver won at home 16-13, Oct. 3.

Buffalo 27, Houston 17—The Bills seem to have recovered from loss of two top receivers but must be prepared for bombardment by George Blanda who threw five touchdowns last week against Kansas City.

San Diego 28, Boston 14—The

Browns Set For Sample Of Vikings

CLEVELAND (AP) — The more than 80,000 fans who jam Cleveland Stadium Sunday will see in the Minnesota Vikings one of the most explosive teams in football.

Coach Norm Van Brocklin has the offense moving, but the defense hasn't caught up. The Vikings have scored 202 points this season, highest total in the National Football League. But they have given up 201 points, also highest in the league, which probably accounts for their 3-3 record.

The game Sunday will be the first between the Cleveland Browns and the Vikings since Minnesota entered the NFL in 1961.

Minnesota, paced by quarterback Fran Tarkenton whose scrambling antics make him one of the most exciting players in the league, tied the Green Bay Packers for second place in the NFL's Western division last year with an 8-5-1 record.

Bill Brown and Tommy Mason provide the Vikings with a one-two running punch and also are the targets for many of Tarkenton's passes. Brown was the club leader in pass receiving last year as well as in rushing.

All of the Browns are expected to be available as they try to stretch their mark to 6-1 and maintain their hold on sole possession of first place in the Eastern Division.

Gophers Need Victory Over Buckeye '11'

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Minnesota and Ohio State, which haven't met for 15 years, collide here Saturday in a key Big Ten contest.

The Golden Gophers, sporting a 3-0 league record, have title aspirations and need a victory to keep pace with front-running Michigan State.

The Buckeyes, 2-1 in the conference, must win to keep their slim championship hopes alive.

The last time these two met, in 1950, Ohio walloped the Gophers, 48-0, giving the Bucks a 6-4 edge in the series.

A crowd of 84,000 is expected for homecoming and the odds-makers rate the Bucks a three-point choice.

Ohio State is virtually at full strength except for center Kim Anderson who has a bad knee and is not expected to play.

The Gophers boast a balanced attack that has amassed 1,802 yards in six games compared to Ohio's 1,140 in five.

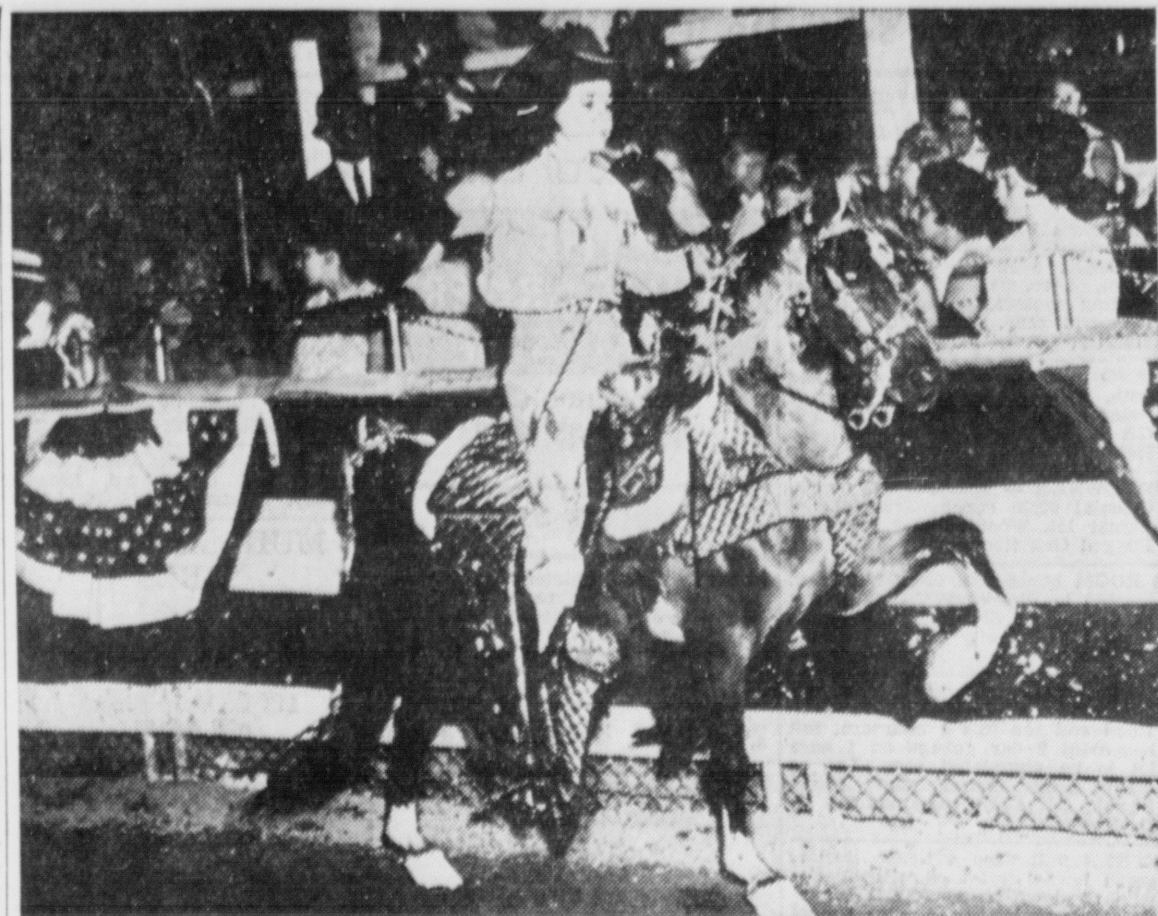

Senior fullback Tom Barrington is Ohio's big running threat. The Lima ace has piled up 330 yards, more than half the Bucks' total of 609.

The Gophers have a veteran quarterback in John Hankinson, who has completed 65 of 130 passes for 792 yards. Fullback Joe Holmberg carries the running load with 311 yards in 88 rushes.

The Buckeyes have been a puzzle this year, starting slowly in all five games. They have yet to score in the first quarter.

Chargers were chewed out by Sid Gillman after that 13-13 tie with Patriots in Boston. They have too much punch for winless Pats who have lost five and tied one in regular season after losing five pre-season games.

Oakland 23, Kansas City 20—Dick Wood did the job for the Raiders in an opening day 37-10 win over the Chiefs with two TD passes and also scored once.

PARADE CHAMP — Yankee Clipper, with Judy Ankrom in the saddle, won the $500 championship parade pony stake at the internationally famous American Royal Horse Show in Kansas City, Mo. Owned by the Ankrom Stables, the 9-year-old bay showed well in the four judging categories — manners, performance, conformation and appointments.

BG-Miami Clash Seen Vital in Mid-Am Race

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Bowling Green plays host to Miami Saturday in a grid clash that could determine the Mid-American Conference championship.

It's the feature attraction on a 23-game Ohio collegiate card that also includes such headliners as Minnesota at Ohio State, Kent State at Toledo, North Texas State at Cincinnati, Akron at Baldwin-Wallace, Wittenberg at Ohio Wesleyan, Villanova at Xavier and Ohio University at Dayton.

Bowling Green (3-0) could virtually wrap up its second straight title with a victory over the surging Redskins (3-1). The Falcons only have Marshall and Ohio U. remaining after the Miami tiff.

The Falcons nipped the Redskins 21-18 last year in a game that decided the title. Miami leads the series, 15-5-2.

The Buckeyes, 2-1 in the Big Ten, will be bidding to hand Minnesota its first conference setback after three triumphs. A homecoming crowd of 84,000 is expected to watch the two teams, which haven't met in 15 years.

Kent (2-1-1) still alive in the league, needs to whip Toledo (1-3) if the Golden Flashes are to remain in contention.

Winless Ohio U., which hasn't lost its first six since 1956, hopes to break into the victory column against winless Dayton.

Xavier, which lost a heart-breaking 15-14 decision to Chattanooga last week, takes on tough Villanova. The Musketeers boast a 5-1 record and quarterback Carroll Williams will be seeking to shatter some more records.

The others:

Oberlin at Kenyon; Wooster

at Tiram; Mt. Union at Marietta; Otterbein at Heidelberg (n); Ashland at Capital; Carnegie Tech at Denison; Georgetown (Ky.) at Defiance; West Virginia State at Central State; Thiel at John Carroll; Eastern Michigan at Western Reserve; Case at Wayne State; Findlay at Northern Michigan; Wilmington at Earlham and Manchester at Bluffton (n); Muskingum at Waynesburg.

CHS Mat Slate Set
The 1965-66 Circleville High School wrestling schedule has been announced by Coach Dave LaBounty.

Practice for the squad begins Monday and the first meet is scheduled Dec. 9. LaBounty reports the Tiger grapplers this season should have more depth than during the past several seasons.

The CHS schedule lists only three home meets. Here is the season card:

Dec. 9 Hamilton Twp., 3:30 p. m.
Dec. 18 at Walnut Ridge, 1 p. m.
Jan. 4 at Columbus Central, 4:15 p. m.

Jan. 11 Groveport, 4 p. m.
Jan. 22 at Groveport, 1 p. m.
Jan. 29 at Pleasant View Invitational, 1 p. m.

Feb. 5 at Worthington Invitational, noon.
Feb. 8 at Lancaster, 7:30 p. m.
Feb. 11 Chillicothe, 7:30 p. m.
Feb. 19 at Wilmington, 7:30 p. m.

Gary Grouwinkel, North Dakota line coach, played in two Rose Bowl games as a guard for the University of Iowa — in 1957 and 1959. He also wrestled at Iowa.

Junior Rifle Club Formed

The formation of a Junior Rifle Club for Pickaway County youth was begun with a meeting of 17 interested youngsters Wednesday at the Fairground's 4-H and Grange Building.

Dick Redman, secretary of the Pickaway Farmers and Sportsmen Assn. and a certified NRA instructor, said steps are being taken to have the new organization affiliated with the National Rifle Assn.

During the initial meeting, it was decided to hold an election of officers in the near future. Meetings will be held the first Thursday of each month, beginning in December, and are scheduled to start at 7 p. m. during the winter.

Redman noted meetings will start at an earlier time in the summer to allow actual firing of weapons on the rifle range at the Pickaway County Fairgrounds.

The new organization is being sponsored by the local Farmers and Sportsmen Assn. Advisors will be the certified NRA instructors of the organization.

Bill McKechnie Dies at Age 78
BRADENTON, Fla. (AP) — William Boyd (Deacon) Bill McKechnie, only manager in the history of the National League to pilot three different teams to pennants, died today. He was 78.

McKechnie, a member of baseball's Hall of Fame, had been recovering from a pneumonia virus but suffered a relapse. He died in Manatee Memorial Hospital at 4:20 a. m.

McKechnie had made his home here for the past 20 years. McKechnie led the Pittsburgh Pirates to a pennant in 1925, repeated with the St. Louis Cardinals in 1928 and managed the Cincinnati Reds to two straight championships in 1939 and 1940.

Youth Baseball Board Schedules Meeting
The Circleville Youth Baseball board of directors will meet 7:30 p. m. Monday at the Pickaway County Fairgrounds.

Nicklaus Sizzles In Aussie Test

ADELAIDE, Australia (AP) — Big Jack Nicklaus of Columbus, Ohio fashioned a blazing 10-under-par 63 in the second round of the Australian Open Golf Championship today for a 36-hole total of 129.

Nicklaus shot a five-under-par 32 on the outgoing nine and came home with a 31.

The Ohioan posted an opening round 66 Thursday and entered the second round trailing Gary Player of South Africa by four strokes. Player carded a sizzling 62 in the first round Thursday and equaled the world record for open golf competition.

AP Guesspert Says Bears To Scare Packers

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — The unbeaten Green Bay Packers come knocking on Papa Bear's door Sunday and they may get a pumpkin pie in the face.
Gale Sayers has made the Chicago Bears a real threat since he took over in the second half of the first Packer-Bear game four weeks ago.
The Packer-Bear renewal of one of pro football's most bitter feuds is the big game on a full program of seven National Football League and four American Football League contests.
It looks like the roughest week yet for a pro picker who just barely escaped with his hide, 6-5, last week. The season totals are 31-11 in the NFL, 14-6-3 in the AFL and 45-17-3 over-all.
Let's stab again: All games Sunday.

NFL
Baltimore 28, San Francisco 24—Colts are favored but this could get us off on the wrong foot. Baltimore just did win 27-24 Oct. 3 at home when Dave Parks caught nine passes for 221 yards and three 49er TDs.

Green Bay 27, Chicago 21—Looks like the spot for an upset win by the Bears but don't sell Vince Lombardi short. The Packers have been doing it with mirrors lately while the Bears have been the scourge of the league with Sayers running wild. Look for Packer defense to clamp down on Sayers and give Rudy Bukich the big rush.

St. Louis 31, New York 14—Charley Johnson will be a doubtful factor up to the game time and the Giants always give him trouble. But the Cards simply can't afford to lose another and figure to be keyed up after defeat by Redskins.

Cleveland 31, Minnesota 28—This one is enough to scare a ghost. Fran Tarkenton put on his best performance at San Francisco, passing for over 400 yards but the Vikings gave up a bushel of points while winning 42-41.

Dallas 24, Pittsburgh 17—Defense does it again. Neither Cowboys or Steelers show much on offense. Craig Morton probably will get call again over Don Meredith and Mike Nixon is going all the way with Bill Nelsen. Return of Bob Hayes helps Dallas. Steelers make too many mistakes.

Detroit 17, Los Angeles 14—Rams are favored but Lions beat them 20-0 in opener and never let Swede Sware's men inside the 43. The Swede blew his top about the officiating in Baltimore last week and the Rams will be keyed to take it out on the visitors.

Washington 17, Philadelphia 14—Sonny Jurgensen had a hot hand against St. Louis last week and Charley Taylor ran like his old self for the first time. Return of Lonnie Sanders helps "Skins secondary."

AFL
Denver 21, New York 17—Broncos have stronger offense with Cookie Gilchrist back in stride. Jets' attack still sputtering while Weeb Ewbank experiments with Mike Taliaferro at quarterback and hopes his receivers will hang on to the passes for a change. Jets' best scorer recently has been field goal kicker Jim Turner. Denver won at home 16-13, Oct. 3.

Buffalo 27, Houston 17—The Bills seem to have recovered from loss of two top receivers but must be prepared for bombardment by George Blanda who threw five touchdowns last week against Kansas City.
San Diego 28, Boston 14—The

Browns Set For Sample Of Vikings

CLEVELAND (AP) — The more than 80,000 fans who jam Cleveland Stadium Sunday will see in the Minnesota Vikings one of the most explosive teams in football.
Coach Norm Van Brocklin has the offense moving, but the defense hasn't caught up. The Vikings have scored 202 points this season, highest total in the National Football League. But they have given up 201 points, also highest in the league, which probably accounts for their 3-3 record.

The game Sunday will be the first between the Cleveland Browns and the Vikings since Minnesota entered the NFL in 1961.

Minnesota, paced by quarterback Fran Tarkenton whose scrambling antics make him one of the most exciting players in the league, tied the Green Bay Packers for second place in the NFL's Western division last year with an 8-5-1 record.
Bill Brown and Tommy Mason provide the Vikings with a one-two running punch and also are the targets for many of Tarkenton's passes. Brown was the club leader in pass receiving last year as well as in rushing.

All of the Browns are expected to be available as they try to stretch their mark to 6-1 and maintain their hold on sole possession of first place in the Eastern Division.

Gophers Need Victory Over Buckeye '11'

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Minnesota and Ohio State, which haven't met for 15 years, collide here Saturday in a key Big Ten contest.

The Golden Gophers, sporting a 3-0 league record, have title aspirations and need a victory to keep pace with front-running Michigan State.

The Buckeyes, 2-1 in the conference, must win to keep their slim championship hopes alive. The last time these two met, in 1950, Ohio walloped the Gophers, 48-0, giving the Bucks a 6-4 edge in the series.

A crowd of 84,000 is expected for homecoming and the odds-makers rate the Bucks a three-point choice.

Ohio State is virtually at full strength except for center Kim Anderson who has a bad knee and is not expected to play.
The Gophers boast a balanced attack that has amassed 1,802 yards in six games compared to Ohio's 1,140 in five.

Senior fullback Tom Barrington is Ohio's big running threat. The Lima ace has piled up 330 yards, more than half the Bucks' total of 609.

The Gophers have a veteran quarterback in John Hankinson, who has completed 65 of 130 passes for 792 yards. Fullback Joe Holmberg carries the running load with 311 yards in 88 rushes.

The Buckeyes have been a puzzle this year, starting slowly in all five games. They have yet to score in the first quarter.

Chargers were chewed out by Sid Gillman after that 13-13 tie with Patriots in Boston. They have too much punch for winless Pats who have lost five and tied one in regular season after losing five pre-season games.
Oakland 23, Kansas City 20—Dick Wood did the job for the Raiders in an opening day 37-10 win over the Chiefs with two TD passes and also scored once.

PARADE CHAMP — Yankee Clipper, with Judy Ankrom in the saddle, won the $500 championship parade pony stake at the internationally famous American Royal Horse Show in Kansas City, Mo. Owned by the Ankrom Stables, the 9-year-old bay showed well in the four judging categories — manners, performance, conformation and appointments.

BG-Miami Clash Seen Vital in Mid-Am Race

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Bowling Green plays host to Miami Saturday in a grid clash that could determine the Mid-American Conference championship.

It's the feature attraction on a 23-game Ohio collegiate card that also includes such headliners as Minnesota at Ohio State, Kent State at Toledo, North Texas State at Cincinnati, Akron at Baldwin-Wallace, Wittenberg at Ohio Wesleyan, Villanova at Xavier and Ohio University at Dayton.

Bowling Green (3-0) could virtually wrap up its second straight title with a victory over the surging Redskins (3-1). The Falcons only have Marshall and Ohio U. remaining after the Miami tiff.

The Falcons nipped the Redskins 21-18 last year in a game that decided the title. Miami leads the series, 15-5-2.

Road Gets Rocky For Celtic '5'

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
It's going to be rocky going on the road for the champion Boston Celtics in the National Basketball Association this season from all indications.

The Cincinnati Royals whipped the Celtics 113-108 Thursday night for the champs' second straight road defeat. Willie Naulls' shooting gave the Celtics a 50-44 lead, but after he fouled out in the second half the Royals forged ahead and won going away.

The Los Angeles Lakers, overwhelmed the touring New York Knicks 140-116 in the other NBA game scheduled Thursday night. The Lakers had beaten the Knicks by two points in Los Angeles Tuesday.

Gary Grouwinkel, North Dakota line coach, played in two Rose Bowl games as a guard for the University of Iowa — in 1957 and 1959. He also wrestled at Iowa.

sharp and crisp."

Humphrey said his trip here was specifically to make Berry's record public, one which he said "Democrats can be proud of." He called Berry "the best prosecutor Clark County has ever had."

"The last campaign I was in was opposed to Barry — but that was Barry Goldwater," Humphrey said.

Humphrey and his wife were greeted by Berry and his wife Paula, who presented the Humphreys a bouquet of roses.

After his speech Humphrey spent several minutes politicking with the crowd, shaking hands and chatting. Several college students were present, including some carrying placards protesting U.S. involvement in Viet Nam. Police reported no disturbances.

In an address at a Warren County Republican rally in Franklin Thursday night, Brown said Humphrey "made it clear that what the administration in Washington wants today is yes men."

He pledged that, if elected, he will "think and act for the people of the 7th District and not knuckle under to any administration in power."

Humphrey's Visit Gives 7th District Dems Hope

SPRINGFIELD, Ohio (AP) — Democrats in this traditionally Republican Area called on Vice President Hubert Humphrey Thursday to give Clark County Prosecutor James Berry a major boost in his campaign for Congress.

They had the party machinery in high gear as Humphrey flew into the 7th Congressional District to plug Berry's candidacy. Berry is pitted next Tuesday against Clarence Brown Jr., of Urbana in an all-out battle for the vacant congressional seat.

Brown is the son of the late Clarence W. Brown, a Republican who recently died after 27 years in the office. Democrats are pulling no stops in their effort to capture the seat.

State Democratic Chairman William Coleman said that time is the big element in the race. "We've been running as the underdog all along," Coleman said.

Humphrey, who flew into the municipal airport south of here with his wife and other officials, was more optimistic as he addressed a crowd estimated at 2,500.

"This chilly wind reminds me of Minnesota," he said.

Ohio Voters May Decide Fair Housing

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio voters may have the final say on a new state law aimed at stopping racial discrimination in housing.

The Ohio Association of Real Estate Boards has asked its 75 member boards to say if they want to appeal to voters to try to overturn the law.

The real estate men say they challenge the law, which takes effect Saturday, not on racial grounds, but because it takes away a property owner's freedom to rent or sell as he pleases.

The state association asked for replies by Dec. 1, to be considered at its trustees meeting in January.

Some real estate men note pointedly the law has no direct penalty provisions. The only penalty would be contempt of court, after investigation, hearings and appeals through the Ohio Civil Rights Commission and the courts.

The law covers homebuilders, lending agencies who finance purchases of houses and others who sell or rent houses. It will not apply to the individual selling the house in which he lives.

One estimate is that it will affect only 40 per cent of Ohio's housing.

listed on the ballot, but without opposition. In this category are Municipal Judge Sterling M. Lamb, Council President Harold Clifton, Second Ward Councilman John Jenkins, Third Ward Councilman Robert Turner, City Solicitor Kenneth Robbins and City Treasurer Everett Stocklen.

Heading the competitive vote will be the mayor's race. Incumbent Ben H. Gordon, a Democrat, will be challenged by Republican Earl D. Boen.

Seeking the First Ward councilman post are incumbent Frank E. Barnhill, a Republican, and Orval B. Archer, a Democrat.

DOWN in the Fourth Ward it will be Democrat John T. Simison opposed by Republican Robert J. Good. The winner will succeed veteran colon Boyd Horn who was defeated in the May primary.

Four candidates will be seeking three posts as councilmen-at-large. They are David Crawford, Keith D. Wagner, Robert J. Hedges and Joseph F. Bell. Bell, Crawford and Wagner are incumbents. Hedges previously served as Third Ward solon, but was required to resign the seat when he moved from the area several months ago.

Ohio Voters May Decide Fair Housing

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio voters may have the final say on a new state law aimed at stopping racial discrimination in housing.

The Ohio Association of Real Estate Boards has asked its 75 member boards to say if they want to appeal to voters to try to overturn the law.

The real estate men say they challenge the law, which takes effect Saturday, not on racial grounds, but because it takes away a property owner's freedom to rent or sell as he pleases.

The state association asked for replies by Dec. 1, to be considered at its trustees meeting in January.

Some real estate men note pointedly the law has no direct penalty provisions. The only penalty would be contempt of court, after investigation, hearings and appeals through the Ohio Civil Rights Commission and the courts.

The law covers homebuilders, lending agencies who finance purchases of houses and others who sell or rent houses. It will not apply to the individual selling the house in which he lives.

One estimate is that it will affect only 40 per cent of Ohio's housing.

B&O Brakeman Killed
ST. CLAIRSVILLE, Ohio (AP) — William Stamm, 60, of Holloway, a railroad brakeman, was killed Thursday when he fell from a slow-moving B&O freight.

listed on the ballot, but without opposition. In this category are Municipal Judge Sterling M. Lamb, Council President Harold Clifton, Second Ward Councilman John Jenkins, Third Ward Councilman Robert Turner, City Solicitor Kenneth Robbins and City Treasurer Everett Stocklen.

Heading the competitive vote will be the mayor's race. Incumbent Ben H. Gordon, a Democrat, will be challenged by Republican Earl D. Boen.

Seeking the First Ward councilman post are incumbent Frank E. Barnhill, a Republican, and Orval B. Archer, a Democrat.

DOWN in the Fourth Ward it will be Democrat John T. Simison opposed by Republican Robert J. Good. The winner will succeed veteran colon Boyd Horn who was defeated in the May primary.

Four candidates will be seeking three posts as councilmen-at-large. They are David Crawford, Keith D. Wagner, Robert J. Hedges and Joseph F. Bell. Bell, Crawford and Wagner are incumbents. Hedges previously served as Third Ward solon, but was required to resign the seat when he moved from the area several months ago.

Turner, a successful candidate in the May primary, was appointed to fill the Third Ward vacancy. Crawford, Wagner and Hedges are all Democrats. Bell is a Republican.
